Marc Garneau's second space mission was aboard STS-77, on May 19th, 1996. He was a Mission Specialist on this flight. On this mission patch are the names of the six crew members (John Casper, Curtis Brown, Andrew Thomas, Daniel Bursch, Mario Runco and Garneau).

This plate block was issued on October 1st, 1992, to celebrate 'Canada in Space'. Each se-tenant pair show 'Astronaut Achievements' with a holograph showing a Space Shuttle orbiting Canada and the other, a silver ANIK E2 Satellite mapping the Earth. This is Canada's first holographic postage stamp. The use of a Space Shuttle was appropriate given that all Canada's early astronauts flew to outer space and returned aboard a Shuttle. There was a fleet of six different Shuttles and Garneau flew on two of them.

This patch is Garneau's personal mission patch from his second space flight (STS-77), aboard the Space Shuttle "Endeavour". Garneau returned from this mission after ten days in space, on May 29th, 1996.
