Currency - Conversions - Confusions

The first sighting of the new Euro currency that has been called to the attention of your Editor, courtesy of member, J.A. Forbes, occurs from Athens, Greece. The Collection Auction firm lists estimates in the new Euro currency and in late November, 1998 gives approximate conversions. It appears that one Euro is worth $1.20 U.S., £ .7, two German marks, 6.67 French francs as examples. We'd better get accustomed to this new monetary unit as it's not going to go away.

Canada Post 1999

Canada Post has announced that at least 71 new issues, including two special envelopes and one special postcard, will be available over the year. A few more may be expected as the year unfolds or additions to announced sets occur.

A Reminder

The National Philatelic Centre in Antigonish, N.S., has installed a new ordering system, necessary to better serve the tens of thousands of collectors, worldwide. If you have an account number there, and you should have, take note that it has been changed. You should, or course, have been notified of this, but so often we forget.

Another Giant Swallow

Last year we reported on Stanley Gibbon's sale to new commercial owners. Now that other revered and ancient (founded in 1776) auction firm of Christie's has been sold to a French firm of Francois Pinault. In 1980 Christie's bought Robson Lowe and then in 1993 Spink and Sons. Concentration occurs not only in the banking industry but in our side of the commercial world as well.

Philatelic Literature

Michael Nowlan, in a column in 1998, stressed the importance of knowledge to collecting and the publications available from which to acquire the necessary background and information. One of the few comprehensive catalogues of such philatelic literature is James Bendon Ltd.'s, comprehensive listing available free by writing to them at P.O. Box 6484, 3307 Limassol, Cyprus. Their latest catalogue contains 88 pages of new and recent editions on postal history and stamp issues from the world over. Get it, the price is right.

Monaco '99

This information may reach you too late to book a flight to Monte Carlo, however the event is worth noting as an example of something new.

Alexander D. Kroo has been responsible for the creation of the "Club de Monte Carlo de l'Elite de la Philatelie". It comprises about 100 of the most important philatelic collectors and personalities from 24 different countries. Many of the big names of world philately are included.

To be sure, with a limit of 100, many, particularly in North America, are not on the list. However, at the Museum in Monaco, on February 12, 13 and 14, 1999, there will be an exhibition of "World Postal History Varieties". Each exhibitor will be able to show one single letter or philatelic document of great rarity. Many items have never been exhibited before. As well, only postal documents which have been transported by regular means may be included.

So, if you think philately is only for the rich and famous you may be correct. Nonetheless, your editor would love to be there. ♣

HAPPY 50TH BIRTHDAY TO THE CANADIAN PHILATELIST JOYEUX 50E ANNIVERSAIRE AU PHILATÉLISTE CANADIEN

Henry F. Ketcheson,
President, 1888

by Charles J.G. Verge, FRPSC
Historian of The RPSC

With the beginning of the 50th Volume of The Canadian Philatelist I thought it might be useful to look back on the history of the Society and its official organs.

Organized philately in Canada was initiated with the founding of the Canadian Philatelic Society in 1887. Henry F. Ketcheson, of Belleville, Ontario, was elected as the first president by a mail vote in early 1888. The first convention was held in Toronto later in 1888 with Henry Heckler, of Halifax, Nova Scotia, being elected president for 1889.

This Canadian Philatelic Association continued intermittently until the First World War, when it seems to have become dormant until 1919 when the reactivat-

Avec le début du 50e volume du Philatéliste canadien j'ai cru qu'il serait bon de revoir l'histoire de la Société et ses publications officielles.

Ketcheson, de Belleville, Ontario, fut élu comme premier président par un vote par courrier au début de 1888. La première convention eu lieu à Toronto vers la fin de 1888. À cette occasion, Henry Heckler, d'Halifax, Nouvelle-Écosse, fut élu président pour 1889.

Welcome to the new look of your Canadian philatelic journal. We will attempt to make this journal even more attractive as issues unfold. We have our Vice-President, Charles Verge, to thank for the new format. Not only has colour come to stay but the new size permits John Sarko and the folks at our publisher Trajan, to do more things more efficiently.

Just because we have new colours and size does not mean that all is new. In fact, we will have wonderful articles on older topics in Canadian philately by Dr. James Gray, James Kraemer, FRPSC and Paul Henry. We will also be visiting the past more often with lists, people and pictures about Canadian philately of the last 50 years. Our front cover contrasts the 'look' of your journal from 1949 onwards.

However, we are a comprehensive journal as benefits our eclectic society membership, hence we will continue to provide articles, not just on Canadian stamps and postal history, but on a wide range of interests. I have never had any of you write to me to express a different viewpoint so I take it that this rests well with you. For heaven's sake, if it doesn't, say so! Please also send those long or short items about your favourite countries or topics. I still presume, of course, that we all collect Canadian stamps and associated material as our main interests.

Now is a wonderful opportunity to take this ship on a new course and to do so as the Editor of this journal. A new Editor is required by June, 1999. Again, I beg you to come forward as it is a most interesting position. As Editor, you meet and speak to many fine and knowledgeable people. You get a firsthand look at different kinds of information – new issues from Canada Post, books and a great deal of information from clubs and individuals.

The Society has undergone a number of reincarnations in name, head office locale and affiliation with other groups over time, and this is our 50th year as the Canadian Philatelic Society. An attempt will be made to trace our early roots and to present our predecessor journals. We have a fascinating history going back a long time prior to 1949, even it could be argued, to the 1870s bristling with colourful and controversial characters.

To change the topic, almost every country, without exception, is preparing to mark the start of a new millennium with, unfortunately, a flood of new issues. Granted these could be a way to start a new sideline collection but don't expect it to appreciate in value quickly, if ever.

Things today are substantially different than when the first post-WWII anniversary was observed, the 75th of the UPU in 1949. In those days, both the number of new issues and the number issued of each were relatively modest. Today a good mint copy of the Berlin issue is catalogued at over $15, and the German set over $85, for example.

Pray that we will not be swamped with those new issues, yet I fear we may, if the word from the United States and Great Britain are examples. Possibly you might wish to skip the mint paper and go for only the nicely used copies.

Don't get trapped by collecting $5 worth of these 21st century issues and then having to pay $85 for albums in which to house them. Enough preaching for this time and welcome to the last year of this millennium and the start of our new journal. ♣

ed Winnipeg Philatelic Society extended membership to collectors everywhere and subsequently changed its name to the Canadian Philatelic Association. Nineteen-twenty-two saw the transfer of the headquarters to Toronto, with the name being changed to the Canadian Philatelic Society.

During the 1930s there was a succession of official organs, some being United States philatelic periodicals. In 1950, the Society decided to produce its own journal, The Canadian Philatelist which, with this issue, shows a new face to celebrate its Golden Jubilee.

Royal Assent was granted in 1959 – largely due to the efforts of Dr. G.M. Geldert, then the Society's President – to use the word "Royal" and the name of the Society was changed to The Royal Philatelic Society of Canada.

The RPSC Fellowship was introduced in 1960. This honour is diale, lorsqu'elle semble avoir disparue. En 1919, la Winnipeg Philatelic Society commença à accepter des membres de partout et se renomma la Canadian Philatelic Association. Le transfert du bureau-chef à Toronto se fera en 1922 et on profitera de l'occasion pour changer le nom de la Société pour la Canadian Philatelic Society.

Pendant les années 30s, la Société a eu un nombre effarant de publications officielles, certaines même étaient publiées aux États-Unis. En 1950, la Société décida de publier son propre magazine, Le philatéliste canadien qui, avec ce numéro, fait nouvelle figure pour son jubilé d'or.

L'approbation royale fut reçue en 1959 pour l'utilisation de l'appellation "Royale" – en grande mesure à grâce au travail acharné du Dr. G.M. Geldert, Président de la Société – et le nom de la Société fut changé pour celui de La Société Volume 50! New size, lots of colour, and a better magazine for our members. We've come a long way since the days when Popular Stamps, published by A.L.

McCready, was delivered to our members as a society benefit.

Congratulations for this leap forward go to our Editor, Dr. J.J. Macdonald and to Charles Verge for their vision of a publication designed to take The Royal well into the next century. And since we are always learning and growing together, let us have your feedback as The Philatelist undergoes this dramatic transition. If you are like me, Volume 50 brings with it a need for some carpentry. My bookshelves need a little adjusting and I have my saw at the ready!

Our publication is not the only Society service slated for change. Director David Oberholtzer and John Keenlyside are currently reviewing Sales Circuit proposals and I hope, as we enter the new year, to be able to tell you about a new and improved Sales Circuit program.

A new year – a new century on the horizon. What better time to catch the momentum and to increase our determination to make changes and improvements to our Society? We value very much members' suggestions and comments as to program and service area issues. Get out a pencil and paper and send us yours!

And don't forget that Fredericton trip you are taking. The Royal heads east for its annual meeting in May and I look forward to seeing a great many of you there.

Keith

Volume 50! Nouveau format, en couleurs: un meilleur magazine pour nos membres. Nous en avons parcouru du chemin depuis l'époque où Popular Stamps, publié par A.L. McCready, était livré à tous nos membres.

Toutes nos félicitations pour ces progrès reviennent à notre rédacteur en chef le Dr. J.J. Macdonald, ainsi qu'à Charles Verge, pour avoir envisagé une revue conçue pour conduire La Royale vers le nouveau siècle. Et comme il est toujours bon d'apprendre et de croître ensemble, pourquoi ne pas nous dire ce que vous pensez des changements apportés au Philatéliste. Si vous êtes comme moi, le volume 50 exige un peu de travail de menuiserie, pour agrandir l'étagère. Ma scie est prête!

Notre publication n'est pas le seul avantage qui va changer pour notre association. Notre directeur David Oberholtzer et John Keenlyside examinent plusieurs propositions pour nos ventes par circuits et j'espère pouvoir très bientôt, vous parler d'un programme amélioré.

Une nouvelle année, un nouveau siècle à l'horizon. Le moment est bien choisi pour entrer dans la danse et augmenter notre détermination à modifier et à améliorer notre association. Nous apprécions les suggestions et commentaires de tous nos membres quant aux programmes et services offerts. Prenez donc crayon et papier et écrivez-nous! Et n'oubliez pas votre voyage à Frédéricton. La Royale se rend dans l'Est pour son assemblée générale en mai. J'espère y rencontrer un grand nombre d'entre vous.

bestowed on merit alone for services to philately and to The Society. The Society is recognized as the national and international representative for all collectors in Canada. It is Canada's representative in the Fédération Internationale de Philatélie (FIP) and the Federation of Inter-American Philately (FIAP).

With this article is a gallery of photos of our Presidents. As you can see the Society is missing quite a few. Members and readers are requested to supply the missing ones if they have them or inform the Historian of available sources (magazine, periodicals, pamphlets) where such photos may have been published.

The missing presidential portraits are Alvin J. Craig (1890-91), Charles Cameron (1891-92), O. Kendall (1912-13), A. Sutherland (1922), Rev. J.G. Perold (1928-30), W.F. Ferrier (1931-32), Dr. E.S. La distinction de Fellow fut introduite en 1960. Cet honneur est octroyé sur la base de mérite seulement pour des services rendus à la philatélie et à La Société. Elle est la représentante du Canada auprès de la Fédération Internationale de Philatélie (FIP) et de la Fédération inter-américaine de philatélie (FIAP).

JEAN-PAUL RIOPELLE

Jean-Paul Riopelle a toujours puisé une large part de son inspiration au coeur de la nature. Dès le début des années quatre-vingts l'oie blanche apparaît dans ses tableaux. Il la représente empreinte d'amour et de respect.

To a great extent, Jean-Paul Riopelle has always drawn upon nature for his inspiration. In the early 1980's, the snow goose appeared in his artwork. His portrayal of the goose abounds with love and respect.

I am an "Old General" – collector (as one of my pen-pals introduced himself), life member of the APS since about 40 years and The RPSC since about 25 years respectively.

I have hundreds of better quality duplicates of Austria, Hungary, Spain, G.B., Russia, Colombia, etc., but I am relatively weak in the Middle East countries and Africa general. I suspect hundreds of fellow members face similar problems.

Years ago I sent about 50 sales-books annually with my duplicates to the APS and received as many from them to build up my pre-1980 worldwide used collection. Since Canada, however, introduced its VAT system and our customs people made it very difficult to continue this exchange program, I successfully tried the same method with our RPSC, until they raised the Sale Book value first to $50, and shortly afterwards to $100 (compared to the APS $30, based on nearly a century of experience).

Now, as mentioned above, I myself as well as many collector friends I know, can easily prepare about 50 sales books at $30 to $50 sales value, but hardly four or five books of one country or category with $100 net value. Now, as this exchange method is also becoming more difficult, I tried another exchange way of our otherwise extremely efficient RPSC, the NICKEL BOX METHOD but, unfortunately, I found another shortcoming there. First I ordered a selection of independent African countries. I received 12 stocksheets of 120 stamps each in, roughly, the following orders: A few Tunisia on sheets 1, 5, 7 and 12, Egypt on sheets 6 and 9, South Africa on sheets 3, 4 and 8, etc.

Most of this material was in duplicates, never arranged in alphabetical, nor numerical order, and made it extremely easy for possibly dishonest participants to replace or substitute worthless stamps to their hearts' content. When I suggested some changes to our Molly Krajewski (who is in charge of this program and, in my opinion, a very nice lady), I was told that she has to go by the established rules and cannot change anything. BINGO. Now, as a way out of this dilemma I have the following proposition. As suggested in my CLASSIFIED EXCHANGE AD, I invite interested collectors to join our new MIKADO Exchange Club.

Once we have recruited the first 10 to 20 members, our first step would be to provide them with short questionnaires to determine: a) which countries or categories they are collecting and (possibly with want lists) need our help and; b) which countries or categories they could offer as exchange material to help other collectors.

Thus we could easily publish the results in our monthly photocopied newsletters and leave it up to our members to contact their "counterparts" for a successful exchange. It goes without saying that the more members we have, the better this program will work. If we could not handle it any longer we could pass it on as a "present" to the Society or younger members with Internet, e-mail, etc., experience to replace our present letter writing system in the near future.

Trusting that this suggestion will please some of the RPSC members, I am yours,

Michel Karger,
Montreal, QC

Congratulations Canadian Philatelist

Dear Mr. Spencer,

Please accept this note of congratulations for The Canadian Philatelist / Le Philatéliste canadien on achieving it's 50th volume of continued excellence.

On behalf of the members and officers of The Collectors Club of New York, I personally wish you continued success, and recognize The Canadian Philatelist / Le Philatéliste canadien's long record of contribution towards North American philatelic knowledge.

As time passes, we all show signs of change. The updated format for The Canadian Philatelist / Le Philatéliste canadien including addition of colour, and style adjustments shows your continued commitment for excellence in philatelic publishing.

As publisher of The Collectors Club Philatelist, we fully appreciate the monumental effort required to continually produce a top quality publication on an ongoing basis. Keep up the good work!

The Postal History Society of Canada was founded to promote the study of the postal history of Canada and its provinces. It publishes the quarterly PHSC Journal, whose contents range from fully-researched feature articles to items of current interest – from the pre-stamp era through postmark specialties and regional histories to modern mail mechanization.

Each year the Society holds meetings at shows across Canada. The Annual Meeting is held in the early summer, and is supplemented by Regional Meetings, usually featuring postal history seminars given by Society members. Eight different Study Groups are devoted to the detailed examination of various specialized aspects of postal history.

Message de l'honorable
André Ouellet, c.p., c.r.

Dear Friends,

I am grateful for the opportunity to contribute to this issue of The Canadian Philatelist as it marks a new beginning.

Indeed, 1999 commemorates the 50th anniversary of this publication and its loyal service to philatelists.

In order to commemorate this historic event, The Royal Philatelic Society of Canada decided to give its publication a "face-lift". As you look through the pages, I am sure that you will be just as impressed as I was by its new image. Congratulations to the team that was responsible for improving on a publication that already has a reputation for its high standard of quality.

I would like to highlight the exceptional work done by the members of The Royal Philatelic Society of Canada. Thanks to them thousands of collectors have benefited from numerous invaluable services.

On behalf of Canada Post, I would like to congratulate the many people who have worked throughout the years to make this publication successful in every way. Over time it has become an indispensable tool for philatelists in both Canada and abroad. I am confident that The Canadian Philatelist's new look will uphold this standard of excellence.

Bravo and long live The Canadian Philatelist!

Chers amis,

Le philatéliste canadien publie aujourd'hui un numéro qui fera date. Je suis ravi d'y contribuer.

En effet, 1999 marque le 50^e anniversaire de la publication de ce journal qui fournit depuis un demi-siècle de bons et loyaux services aux philatélistes.

Pour commémorer l'événement, La Société royale de philatélie du Canada a eu l'excellente idée de refaire une beauté à ce fringant quinquagénaire. Au fil des prochaines pages, je suis certain que vous serez, tout comme moi, grandement impressionnés par sa nouvelle image. Je tire mon chapeau à toute l'équipe qui a su rehausser la valeur d'une publication déjà reconnue pour sa grande qualité.

Je m'en voudrais de passer sous silence le travail exceptionnel de La Société royale de philatélie du Canada. Grâce à elle, des milliers de collectionneurs de timbres bénéficient de nombreux services d'une valeur inestimable.

Au nom de Postes Canada, j'aimerais donc féliciter tous les artisans, d'hier et d'aujourd'hui, qui ont contribué à faire de cette publication un succès sur toute la ligne. Au fil des ans, ce journal est devenu un outil indispensable pour les philatélistes canadiens et étrangers. Avec sa nouvelle image, Le philatéliste canadien continuera, j'en suis persuadé, de maintenir cette réputation fort enviable.

Bravo et longue vie à cette publication.

Président du conseil d'administration

Dear Dr. Spencer.

I have recently learned that The RPSC's journal is about to celebrate its 50th volume. Fifty years of publication is not just a worthy milestone. It is a time to take note of what The Canadian Philatelist/Le philatéliste canadien has meant to our hobby.

In fact the strength of Canadian philately today is directly attributable to the support the CP has given to The Royal Philatelic Society of Canada, the knowledge it has spread, the current events it has publicized, and the members it has helped in their collecting pursuits.

Indeed my own interest in Canadian stamps has been nurtured by The CP, and it has made my membership in The RPSC, since 1985, more meaningful.

With all the past positives to contemplate, I am equally delighted hear of the plans for the new, improved CP format. We can never be content to rest on our laurels.

So, as you look toward The CP's second 50 years of service to philately in Canada and to Canadian philately worldwide, I take special pleasure, on behalf of the American Philatelic Society, in congratulating you and The RPSC – and the current and past editors of The CP – on a job exceedingly well done!

With best regards,
John M. Hotchner,
President
American Philatelic Society

Sir Sanford Fleming: Father of the Three-penny Beaver

by James Gray

If you know Halifax, Nova Scotia, at all, you will almost certainly have seen the Northwest Arm, where multi-coloured yachts assemble in the spring in readiness for the regatta season.

On the western shore of the Arm there is a large, wooded area known as the Dingle where, on a lofty knoll once owned by the Cunard family, stands a tower about 100 feet high. Built nearly 90 years ago, under the energetic auspices of the Halifax branch of the Canadian Club, and modelled on the design of a Venetian campanile, it was planned to commemorate the first legislative assembly in Halifax, and indeed the first example of representative government in Canada, established in 1758.

That Tower stands today as a monument to the great achievements of the man who was its brainchild, Sir Sandford Fleming, KCMG (1827-1915). There is a famous picture of Sir Sandford, himself a towering figure, standing bare-headed in the rain on October 2, 1908, when the granite cornerstone was laid by Lieutenant-Governor Fraser in the presence of a small crowd of dignitaries and local citizens. Sir Sandford had offered the city of Halifax 100 acres of the Dingle property on condition that the Tower would be built by public subscription. The plan was an ingenious one: the Tower was to be in five vertical sections, the top section representing the year of its foundation, 1908, richly ornamented with belvedere, cornice, parapet, and observation cupola, and the others to be kept very simple in symbolizing four significant dates in the progress of the Province as well as the nation - 1758, 1804, 1841, and, of course, 1867.

The Tower consists mainly of granite and ironstone, but panels in native stone from many parts of the world were contributed by the dominions and colonies of the Empire as it then was, as well as by the provinces and universities of Canada and by the chief cities of Great Britain. As a special touch, the ladies of Bristol, England, presented a silken replica of the flag given to John Cabot by King Henry VII (1485-1509) from whom the explorer had obtained letters of naturalization as well as letters patent for the Matthew voyage. (The Bristol connection is interesting for another reason: when Cabot returned from Newfoundland and/or Cape Breton, the King presented him with the sum of £10 sterling, plus an annuity of £20 to be provided from the Bristol Customs duties). The Tower cost $15,000, and Fleming himself was one of the most generous contributors.

In many ways the Tower represented the culmination of an enormously successful career. Fleming had lived in Halifax in the 1860s and owned a number of important properties in the city, but he always had a particular desire for the Dingle estate, which he eventually purchased from several owners. Today Fleming Park, adjacent to the Dingle, is named after him.

Perhaps his love for Halifax and wooded lands bordering on the water sprang from the fact that the town of his birth, Kirkcaldy, on the north shore of the Firth of Forth in Fifeshire, Scotland, almost directly opposite Edinburgh on the map, bore some similarity to the place.

Just as Kirkcaldy had its famous men such as Adam Smith, the great economist, and the renowned architects and furniture designers, James and Robert Adam, so Halifax had its Joseph Howe, its Charles Tupper, and its Sir Samuel Cunard. Like Barrington Street in Halifax, too, one of the longest streets in Canada, Kirkcaldy, known locally as "the lang town," has its four-mile long thoroughfare.

At the time of Fleming's birth in 1827, Kirkcaldy was already a spearhead of the Industrial Revolution, with cotton spinning at the forefront, and its shipping expanding by the hour, its quays piled up with produce from around the world. Sandford's father, Andrew, was a highly successful building contractor at a time when new establishments were springing up everywhere – banks, schools, churches, factories housing 2,000 weaving looms, and so on. In one of the schools Andrew built, the young Thomas Carlyle taught for a time.

Linoleum, which became one of the most sought-after products of Kirkcaldy, had yet to be invented, but almost everything else to satisfy an industrialist's wishes was there.

Parents Andrew and Elizabeth, with their six sons and two daughters, lived in a comfortable three-storey stone house called "Shirra Ha" on Glasswork Street, in the commercial heart of Kirkcaldy. Already the steam engine, recently introduced by George Stephenson, was in evidence, and young Sandford's interest in trains was quickly aroused.

He attended school, first at Kennoway, a few miles up the coast, and then at Kirkcaldy Burgh School where he showed particular promise in mathematics. From his father he inherited mechanical and drafting skills as well as a penchant for sketching. Several of his early drawings were good enough to be lithographed by a local printer.

One of Kirkcaldy's leading engineers and surveyors, John Sang, who specialized in harbour works, waterworks, and railway surveys, offered young Sandford an apprenticeship which he accepted.

Thus he became one of the first in his community to assist in surveying the new railway lines from Edinburgh to

On arrival in Montreal for his exams as a surveyor Fleming witnessed yet another devastating fire: the Parliamentary buildings had been set ablaze during the Elgin riots, and Fleming rushed into the legislative chamber to rescue a portrait of the Queen

Perth, and Perth to Dundee, the forerunners of the great London Midland Scottish line.

For four years Sandford worked under Sang's guidance from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m., studying land measurements and calculations, mechanics, and even astronomy. At night he worked by gaslight in his dad's workshop, making instruments of metal such as scales, compasses, and rulers. He invented a machine for tracing silhouettes onto a paper backdrop, and produced a special chessboard for the Kirkcaldy chess club of which he was a talented member.

Emigration from Scotland to Canada was very much in the air at the time. Sandford's own Kennoway schoolmaster went to Canada, as did several of Fleming senior's workmen. One of Andrew Fleming's cousins, a medical doctor named John Hutchison, had moved to this country and set up practice in Peterborough, Ontario. On returning to Kirkcaldy for a visit in 1842, he made a deep impression on the Fleming family with his stirring accounts of pioneer life.

Andrew, who had the future of his eight children to think about, decided to send his eldest son David and Sandford out to join Hutchison as a kind of advance party, with the understanding that the rest of the family would follow should the two boys be successful in their venture into the New World.

Successful they certainly were: not at first, perhaps, as both David and Sandford had to find work outside Peterborough, which was then only a small town of barely 2,000 inhabitants, though Dr. Hutchison, their host for a time, had prospered well and owned one of the few substantial villas there.

David, who had trained as a carpenter in his dad's workshop, found employment fairly quickly with a Toronto cabinetmaker. Sandford, had letters of introduction from Edward Ellice, a Scottish member of parliament, to two of Toronto's leading citizens – Bishop Strahan, the founder of King's College which later became the University of Toronto, and Casimir Gzowski, ancestor of Peter of CBC fame, a very successful engineer, soldier and educator of Polish origin who was then in charge of the Department of Roads and Harbours. (You will recall that Gzowski, who later became Sir Casimir, was honoured on March 5, 1963, the 150th anniversary of his birth, with the issue of a 5-cent stamp showing his portrait and a background depicting some of his achievements: Scott and Unitrade #410).

Unfortunately, those two eminent men gave young Sandford rather bleak advice, according to his own account:

"Called again at Mr. Gzowski's... he knew [of] nothing in the province [i.e. the Province of Canada as it was then designated]; the great works were nearly finished and the funds were exhausted and they would require to pay off several of the assistants in a short time. In fact he thought it a very bad country for professional men and would advise me as the most profitable for myself to return to Scotland.”

A cold douche like that is all a good Scot needs to spur him into action. After hunting high and low in Toronto, Hamilton, Guelph, and Port Dover, and after showing his sketches of the countryside and local churches in the hope of interesting some architect or designer in his work, Sandford finally landed a job as journeyman surveyor back in Peterborough, thanks in part to Dr. Hutchison.

First he produced some detailed drawings of the local courthouse and church; then he prepared a complete survey of the town, including house plans. Later he had these printed, and sold nearly 300 copies. One success led to another, and soon his sketches of Toronto Cathedral, plans of the Newcastle and Cobourg areas, together with other drawings caught the attention of a Toronto engraving firm.

With news of the accomplishments of their two boys, their father decided to come with the rest of the family in 1847, and they settled on the Humber River near Toronto, where Andrew purchased a sawmill. Sandford and David helped during the summer to get the mill working and to put up fences as well as starting a small garden.

Sandford's next move was to get a job with a surveyor called J. Stoughton Dennis in the spring of 1848, his ambition now being to qualify as a provincial land surveyor. Dennis recruited him to produce a full-scale survey of the city of Toronto, and this enterprise got him excited about town planning in general.

One of his special interests was in street lighting: as a cheap substitute for gas, he proposed to use the charcoal lights of a magnetic battery in series. At the Mechanics Institute in Toronto, too, where he studied for his surveyor's examination, he produced a model locomotive to show the governing committee of the Institute the advantages of the steam railway system, which was still in its infancy in Canada.

In June of the following year he met with a group of 10 surveyors and engineers to discuss the establishment of a Canadian Institute for the promotion of scientific knowledge and research. It began rather shakily, but in time developed into a thriving organization, with published proceedings.

The Institute continues to exist today. Fleming contributed many papers of his own, on subjects as diverse as steam-boats (the most practical means of transport in Canada before the railroads were built), improvements to the Toronto harbour, and, as one might expect, the design of postage stamps. To that last topic the next parts of this article will return.

To describe Sandford Fleming's rise to fame and fortune as meteoric would be an understatement. Apart from designing Canada's first postage stamp and helping to found the Royal Canadian Institute as it came to be known:

1) He was one of the pioneer promoters throughout the world of the concept of Universal Standard Time. In 1876 he proposed the establishment of a prime meridian from which time would be measured in 24 standard zones, 15 degrees apart in longitude, starting with Greenwich in England. Suggesting a 24-hour clock in place of the 12-hour model, he designed a double-dialled watch on the same principle.

This watch, with its "cosmic" and "local" features was sold at a Christie's auction in New York in October, 1990, for $22,000 (U.S.). The buyer was the Smithsonian Institute. It was not until 1883 that the new time system was implemented by the railway authorities in North America. Two years after that, from New Year's Day, 1885, it was adopted in Europe, thanks very largely to Fleming's vigorous campaigning, much of it at his own expense. The 24-hour clock was not accepted so universally, but many timepieces from 1876 onwards do show the 24-four numbers either separately or together with the usual 12.

2) He mapped out the entire Intercolonial Railway system and became Chief Engineer of the CPR, a position from which he was fired, for political reasons, by Sir Charles Tupper, then Minister of Transport, in 1880, only to be reinstated later as a valued advisor by Sir Wilfred Laurier. Together with his lifelong Nova Scotia friend, George Monro Grant (Minister of St. Matthew's Presbyterian Church in Halifax and eventually Principal of Queen's University, Kingston), he crossed Canada, largely on foot, in 1871, to carry out a preliminary survey for the then new CPR through the Rockies.

His recommendation of a northern route through the Yellowhead Pass was turned down, however, in favour of a more southerly route using the Kicking Horse and Rogers Passes. On the basis of another protracted journey in 1883, Fleming confirmed that second route.

3) After so-called retirement he proposed and backed the construction of a state-owned system of telegraphs throughout the then British Empire, and managed to live to see the completion of a Pacific cable linking Canada and Australia in 1902.

4) He was a Director of the Hudson's Bay Company, and president of several private companies.

5) He was Chancellor of Queen's University for 25 years until his death in 1915, and a very active Chancellor at that. Fleming Hall on the Queen's campus stands today as a monument to his stewardship. When we remember that he had left school at the age of 14 and had no university training, this distinction is all the more remarkable. In more recent times, another railroad giant, Donald Gordon, who likewise had no university courses to his name, became President of CN and Chancellor of Queen's – an interesting tradition.

6) A staunch Federalist, Fleming advocated Confederation in the critical years from 1864 to 1867.

7) He acted as Canadian ambassador to Hawaii, and thought it should become a province of Canada, long before the USA got into the act.

8) A devout Presbyterian, he wrote a paper on "Short Daily Prayers for Households and for Travellers" as well as many scientific articles on railway surveys and construction.

Fleming was a very tall man, with reddish hair and an imposing beard which he had started in his 20s and kept up until the time of his death. He married Jeanie Hall, the daughter of one of Dr. John Hutchison's neighbours, in 1855. They had four sons and two daughters, and two other children who died in infancy. Jeanie herself died in 1888 at the age of 57.

One of their sons, Sandford Jr., who was known as Bobby, followed in his father's footsteps by becoming an engineer and surveyor. Frank, the oldest boy, chose a career as a cattle farmer, while Walter followed the military path as a cadet at RMC, and Hugh became a medical doctor. The girls, Lily and Minnie, remained at home in Winterholme, Ottawa, with their parents.

The recipient of many honours, Fleming received honorary degrees from St. Andrew's in Scotland, Columbia, New York, Toronto, and Queen's, and was knighted by Queen Victoria. On the occasion of his receiving the KCMG in 1897, he was presented with a watch which, Charles Firby told me, was recently sold by him to a private customer for $5,000 (U.S.).

Whether it was one of Fleming's own designing I do not know. Canada Post issued a 12-cent stamp in 1977 depicting Fleming in his middle years against a pictorial background showing some of his achievements. Designed by Will Davies, the stamp (Unitrade #739) shares a se-tenant spotlight with Joseph F. Bernier, an explorer of Northern Canada. Why the two were lumped together in this way is not quite clear to me, apart from the fact that 1977 marked the 150th anniversary of Fleming's birth and the 125th of Bernier's. Fleming makes another philatelic appearance of a sort in the Prestige booklet issued for the sesquicentennial of Queen's University in 1991 (Unitrade #1338a). Principal Grant upstages him in a handsome oval frame, while Fleming, the University's long-serving Chancellor, lurks in the background wearing his robes of office.

For some reason no mention is made of him in the accompanying blurb. When he died in Halifax on July 22, 1915, all the leading newspapers, including the Toronto Globe and the Times of London, carried eloquent obituary notices the following day, but, as far as I have been able to discover, none of them mentioned his role in the designing of the Three-penny Beaver.

Almost every aspect of Fleming's life was a challenge. One of his obituarists, slightly misquoting Robert Browning, described him as "one who never turned his back," and that was a fair comment. Even on the voyage to Canada in 1845, on the sailing ship Brilliant, he and brother David experienced one of the worst storms of the century. On arrival in Quebec City they were greeted with devastating fires that almost ruined the lower town.

On arrival in Montreal for his exams as a surveyor Fleming witnessed yet another devastating fire: the Parliamentary buildings had been set ablaze during the Elgin riots, and Fleming rushed into the legislative chamber to rescue a portrait of the Queen – the same portrait, I believe, that is featured in the rare 12-penny black (Unitrade #3). His role as Chief Engineer of three railroads involved huge challenges one after the other. He had to fight hard to win the consent of this and other nations over the Pacific Cable and Universal Standard Time. He never gave up.

Above all, Fleming was a staunch patriot, a believer in Confederation, and a true lover of his adopted country.

Looking back on his 60 years of experience in Canada, this is what he said in an address to the Canadian Club in Toronto in February, 1904:

"During the years which have passed, many hands and many minds have been actively engaged in building up this nation.

"One and all have done their part; each in his own sphere has helped to advance our country and shape its history but we must never forget to look forward. The advancement of the Dominion should be, and is, the first consideration with every true Canadian. To build up Canada and give her a prominent place among the nations is our legitimate ambition, and we must see that the elements of national strength are steadily kept in view. If much has been accomplished, much also remains to be done, and we must all endeavour to see that it is well and wisely done."

Fleming had certainly done his part. We need more like him now.

When he was only in his 20s and still learning his trade as a surveyor, Sandford Fleming became increasingly irritated with having to stand in line at the post office to have his letters rated one by one in the pre-stamp days.

After all, Great Britain had issued postage stamps since 1840 and the United States since 1847, and Fleming could not understand why the Province of Canada, as it then was, should be dilly-dallying over the matter. His chance came in February, 1851, when the Hon. James Morris was appointed Postmaster General, as Fleming had been doing some design work for a close friend of Morris' called Sheriff Rutten, and Rutten recommended him to Morris. The PMG wanted someone to produce a drawing that could be used as the design of a three-penny postage stamp.

The young Fleming met with Morris in a hotel called Ellah's in downtown Toronto, and his design was approved almost immediately and engraved by James Ellis of Ellis and Company, Toronto. The printing contract was given at first to a Toronto firm, but for reasons of security Morris decided to transfer the order to Rawdon, Wright, Hatch and Edson of New York. On April 21, 1851, the Canadian Post Office published a circular to the effect that not only the three-penny beaver, but also the six-penny Prince Albert, and a one-shilling stamp showing the Queen's head would be issued in the near future.

Fleming's design is believed to have been based in part on a woodcut print with the title "Beaver Hunting in Canada," and this belief is strengthened by the fact that on a page of his diary he had mounted a copy of that print alongside an essay of the three-penny beaver in Venetian red. This essay was probably given by the printer, Hugh Scobie, to Fleming in 1851. In 1915 it was inherited by Sandford Fleming, Jr., who presented it to H. Borden Clarke, proprietor of the Old Stamp Shop in Ottawa on November 24, 1934. Clarke sold it to a collector, Bruce Robson, on May 25, 1941, and when Robson died it became the property of his family who asked Charles G. Firby of Waterford, Michigan, to put it up for auction. The sale was held in October, 1996, and the estimated price was $65,000 U.S. In a recent telephone interview Mr. Firby revealed that the prize item went to a private American collector for the sum of $55,000 which included the buyer's premium of 10 per cent.

As interested readers will know, the whole story of the designing of the stamp and the provenance of the essay is told, with one or two minor mistakes, in a pamphlet issued by Charles Firby in which the essay is displayed together with a facsimile of Fleming's note: "Breakfasted at Ellah's Hotel with Mr. Rutter and Hon. Jas. Morris, Postmaster General. Designing postage stamp(s) for him."

There are four extant essays in all, including the one sold by Mr. Firby. In addition, a one-shilling beaver essay was designed, but rejected in favour of the 12-penny with the Chalon head portrait of Queen Victoria. The only known copy of the one-shilling essay is in the Canadian Postal Archives in Ottawa.

In an address he gave in 1891 to the Canadian Institute, later published in the Transactions of that body (Vol. III, 1891-92, pp. 177-180), Fleming outlined the history of the system of adhesive stamps for the prepayment of letters from 1840 onward. He then criticized most of the Canadian issues up to the date of his address, including his own three-penny Beaver – not unlike the father who looks at his son somewhat quizzically after 40 years! This is what he said:

"Obviously a postage stamp should, on its face, plainly indicate its value, so that it should present no difficulty to the person using it. The three-penny stamp in 1851 had on each of its four corners a small figure "three" (3) to denote its value, its designer seemingly ignoring the fact that one large figure would be plainer than four or any number of small figures. We may trace to this source the crucial defect of every Canadian stamp since issued... the small figures... have been constantly adhered to."

Fleming went on to say that poor-sighted or colour-blind people would have trouble "as some colours in use render the whole design, especially in certain lights, next to invisible." Noting that one in 20 were colour-blind, and including himself in that category, he proceeded to reprove himself:

"I have, by implication, cast blame on the individual responsible for the details of the first stamp issued. Referring to some old memoranda, I there find the original design or rather its facsimile in the first proof from the engraver's plate, and I am thus reminded that the blame must rest to a large extent upon myself, inasmuch as, at the request of the Postmaster General I furnished the design bearing the date February, 1851. It must, however, be said that the stamp then issued is not the same in all respects as the present stamp [what we now call the Small Queens]. Among the changes which have been made, an effigy of the Queen's head has been substituted for a beaver. Her Majesty's portrait is always seen with satisfaction, and few will fail to recognize the appropriateness of this change if they keep out of view the process of cancellation by the post office officials. The objection which must be taken to the stamps in use today [1891-92] throughout the Dominion is on the ground of the inherent defect which I have pointed out, a defect which they have inherited from the parent stamp of 1851."

Fleming then suggested a new design, similar to that of the two-pence-half-penny stamp of Great Britain (1890: Scott #201, Design 70) which retains the Queen's head but on a reduced scale, and has the price figure clearly occupying the lower half. Alternatively, Fleming suggested, a crown could replace the Queen's head altogether, and he provided two sketches to illustrate the point. Incidentally, the only Canadian or British stamps that have the price occupying the greater part of the design are the postage dues of Canada (1906 onward) and Great Britain (1914 onward). The British issues D102 to D106 show the crown in the top of each stamp.

Reading between the lines of Fleming's remarks on the shortcomings of the Canadian postal authorities, even though he generously included himself in the criticism, one can understand why our post office appears to have been less than magnanimous in its commemoration of the life of that truly great Canadian, Sir Sandford Fleming KCMG. ♣

The Provisional Stamps of Romagne

By Frank Alusio

Romagne, a state that never was a proper state because it lived a short life span of a Provisional Government and lasted only five months as a political entity.

Introduction

When Napoleon Bonaparte (Napoleon I) fell from power in 1815, statesmen of Europe convened in Vienna, Austria, to structure a peace settlement and to fix the general outlines of the map of Europe. The Treaty of Vienna (1815) established the political condition of Italy that lasted until unification in 1861.

Prior to the First War for Independence (first of three) in 1848, the Italian peninsula was divided into seven territories. (See chart below).

The Pontifical States were further divided into three zones. Zone 3, the most northerly, comprised of the Legazioni of Bologna, Ferrara, Forlì, and Ravenna. After the defeat of the Austrian troops, in the Second War for Independence, an armistice was agreed to at Villafranca, south of Verona, on 11 July 1859 and later officially signed in Zurich on 10 November 1959 between Napoleon III and Franz Josef I. As a result of the liberation by the Sardinian troops, Zone 3 became the Provisional Government of Romagne.

Political Entity

After the end of the Second War for Independence, the Austrian troops, who had the mission to defend the Pontifical States, abandoned the Legazioni of Bologna first on 12 June 1859 and last Rimini on 24 June. At the same time the municipality of Bologna nominated a Provisional Commission of Government comprised of five members officially separated from the Pontifical States to which it had been part of until this time. On 11 July 1859, Victor Emanuel II, King of Sardinia, appointed Massimo D'Azeglio as the Commissioner.

One of the tasks of the commissioner was the recruitment of men of those districts to take part in the continuous war effort to unite Italy. But the Treaty of Villafranca put an end to his mission.

Prior to the First War for Independence (first of three) in 1848, the Italian peninsula was divided into seven territories.

He left Bologna on 28 August. On 6 August, Colonel Leonetto Cipriani was nominated Governor of Romagne. Being a friend of the Bonaparte family, it was suspected, on the part of the Italians, that he would take care of the interests of the French Emperor rather than those of the national unity.

But the times were such that provoked rapid changes. Cipriani resigned on 9 November and the title of Governor of Romagne was assigned to Luigi Carlo Farini.

One of the first acts of the Provisional Government was the emanation of a Decree published on 30 August 1859 concerning the issuance of a special set of postage stamps, stating:

"The Governor of Romagne, considering the facilitation of the postal service and its benefits to the public, it is necessary to produce and issue postage stamps.

"Article 1) The existing stamps of the Pontifical States are abolished and are declared without value.

"Article 2) As of 1 September 1859, there will be new stamps issued with the wording in the frame: FRANCO BOLLO POSTALE-ROMAGNE with denomination in Bajocchi in the centre.

"Article 3) The Minister of Finance is in charge of the execution of this Decree."

The signature on the Decree was that of Governor General Leonetto Cipriani. It is evident that since the Decree was published the day before the issue, the stamps must have been printed in advance. In fact they were punctually made available for sale on 1 September 1859.

Printing

The task for the preparation of the stamps was assigned by the Ufficio dei Francobolli Ordinario (Office of the Ordinary Stamps) which was created ad hoc. The reproduction of the original plates was awarded to the Amoretti Brothers Foundry of Bologna. The printing was executed by the local printing house of the Stamperia Governativa (State Printing House) Della Volpe.

Various researches and studies have been unable to identify the engraver. The origin of the paper, whether it was purchased in Turin or in the new Romagne (where paper mills were not scarce) is also unknown.

In any case it was poor, a bit coarse, plain coloured paper. But this same paper constitutes one of the characteristics of this set. It is certain that the preparation of the issue did not waste time in aesthetic research. Suffice to say that the set was ready in a time relatively short, and those who were in charge knew very well that the stamps would have a short life span.

No documents tell us how many stamps were printed; however, the great master of philately Emilio Diena, in his comprehensive study undertaken in 1898, came up with a table. It summarized the data derived from bills and receipts which accompanied the stamps supplied to the Minister of Finance at the inspection office in Bologna. Figure 1 below, shows the data of all deliveries by denomination.

Face value	1/2	1	2	3	4	5	6	8	20
Printing (000)	78.0	125.4	93.00	60.00	90.00	46.8	15.0	21.0	6.0

Figure 2:
The corresponding values were as follows:

Bajocchi	1/2	1	2	3	4	5	6	8	20
Lira/centesimi	2c	5c	10c	15c	20c	25c	30c	40c	1L

First day of issue. Cover mailed from Bologna on 1 September 1859 to Padova, Venetia, in the territory still occupied by Austria. The postal rate required was a 4 Bajocchi stamp; however, the sender applied a 5 Bajocchi value.

Last day of issue. Cover franked with 4 Bajocchi mailed from Bologna, on 31 January 1860, to Pontedera (Tuscany) – the unified rate required to Sardinian States, Parma, Modena, Tuscany, and within Romagne.

The complete sets delivered to the post office were only 6,000.

The Issue

A set of nine stamps was issued on 1 September 1859. The stamps were in use for five months only to 31 January 1860, when on 1 February 1860 the stamps of Sardinia were put on sale. Of the five territories: Lombardy (excluding Venetia) Modena, Parma, Tuscany, and the Two Sicilies, were unified by the new postage rate, Romagne was the only one not having stamps with value in Italian currency.

These stamps are not completely ungraceful; on the contrary, if you observe them with a critical eye, you will discover a pleasant impression. The colours form a harmonious and pleasant range of tones. The stamps of Romagne were printed in sheets of 120 divided in two panes of 60 with a gutter between the two.

Postal Rates and Usage

Initially, under the Provisional Government, all the existing postal rates were respected. That is, letters addressed within the confinement of the post office that rate was 1 Bajocco (5c); those addressed contiguous to the post office was 2 Bajocchi (10c); the rate then increased in accordance to the distance.

On 1 November 1859, a unified rate was introduced for mail travelling to the Sardinian States, Parma, Modena, Tuscany, and Romagne. The rate was 20c (4 Bajocchi) for letters up to 20 grams; 40c (8 Bajocchi) for letters between 21-29 grams; and so on. A supplementary rate of 10c (2 Bajocchi) for letters travelling by sea was applied. Other rates were fixed for newspapers, printing matter, manuscripts, and parcels.

The stamp that was used in the largest quantity was the 4 Bajocchi which corresponded to 20 centesimi, the rate for a normal letter mailed within the Kingdom of Sardinia. This is then the only value which is rare in unused condition. All the others are much more valuable if they are used. The 6 Bajocchi used represents the major rarity of the set.

The bisecting of stamps was a habit at the time and was a question of an orthodox initiative, tolerated by the post office, which was almost impossible to suppress it. The "Romagnoli," accustomed to cut the Pontifical States' stamps in two, three, four, and even six, they silently felt the right to do the same with the stamps of the Provisional Government. Many bisected stamps on cover are known; however, the bisected 4, 6, 8 Bajocchi are the rarest.

On 1 February 1860, as mentioned above, the sale and usage of the postal values of Sardinia began. However, the usage of the Romagne stamps was tolerated until 12 March 1860. In a few cases they were used with the Sardinian stamps and such covers are indeed rare.

Conclusion

At the end of the postal validity date of 31 January 1860, (fig. 6) the second life of the Romagne stamps began. They appeared in the wonderful world of philately. At this point one would ask: How many stamps of Romagne were not sold? And what ever happen to them?

On 8 May 1860, the Minister of Finance in Turin (then capital of Piedmont-Sardinia) advised that the Superintendent of Finance of Bologna had unsold stock of uncertain quantities of stamps and was waiting for instruction as to their disposal. The Director General of Post replied that the whole stock should be sent to Turin. A parcel containing 599,400 stamps of different values was dispatched by rail with evidence of the total sold (534,800). Therefore it is presumed that the total printing and delivery would have been 1,134,200.

As for the disposal of the unsold stamps, Emilio Diena said: "It seemed that some of the stamps have found their way to France and Belgium where, up to that time, the Romagne stamps were quoted in used condition only and now the prices are quoted in unused condition instead." What was left over were bought by a certain Cosimo Melfi of Antwerp, Belgium in occasion of one of his trips to Italy. By 1898, noted Diena, the Ministry of Post and Telegraph of Italy did not possess any Romagne stamps other than one set only.

The stamps issued by the Provisional Government of Romagne had therefore a very short life. Modest in appearance and perhaps philatelically less appreciated than the other postal values of the Old Italian States, they represent a notable importance because they document an historical page of the Italian unity.

The 8 Bajocchi stamp bisected diagonally to form a postal rate of 4. Cover mailed on 20 February 1860, during the tolerated period: from 1 February 1860 to 12 March 1860, from Pontelagoscuro (Ferrara) to Venice, still under the domination of Austria. The large numeral 5 represents a 5-centesimi tax, amount charged at the time as the destination was outside the Kingdom of Sardinia.

Stamps as Investment

Prof. Dr. Carlrichard Bruhl prepared an article on this subject that may have been an address to a club or for publication. Bruhl died recently in Germany. The article is in German but a few interesting sentences, translated should be of interest to all.

"No question one hears from collectors often what is the value of my collection and in nine out of 10 cases the value is given far beyond the actual value. Especially for classic stamps the disappointment is already preprogrammed. But such false calculations when the collector likes to calculate into his own pocket, should not be a reason to neglect his collection."

"Surely stamps are an investment and different from gold, paintings or coins. These items can be bought and sold without difficulties."

Bruhl talks about that a certain minimum may be required to finance a yearly stamp investment. He speaks of classic stamps and warns unless one is experienced, to invest in modern stamps is highly speculative. He gives a good example. His grandfather gave to him blocks of any new stamp that was issued during 1923 and 1936 so that he could get a university education when selling the stamps. When in 1940 these stamps were sold he was just able to purchase on the black market a few cigarettes from American soldiers. In 1960 the market started to recover. Today the cover has become a major factor rather than just the loose stamps even though in Spain, Italy or South America, loose stamps are still preferred.

"Of course one cannot expect results as achieved by the Boker auction which sold recently. He had outstanding knowledge of the subject and the timing was excellent. He purchased most of the major classic stamps shortly after the war when few had money available, hence much of his material was bought at very advantageous prices."

He then writes "Auction houses want to sell their material, they have little interest to describe all the faults of a stamp or cover. The catalogues give a very good description of the quality terms. If such a description is lacking it is not done without a reason.

I do not imply that there is a deliberate attempt to mislead. But care must be taken about items described as Luxus as these may require careful examination. It is up to the buyer to do this."

He mentions that certificates that do not describe the quality of the stamp are useless and only state the stamp is genuine. No investment is without risk and here knowledge, through detailed catalogue reading and special study groups, will reduce the risk. □

A Piece of Scottish Postal History

By Rev. J. Raymond Corbett

The piece of postal history in question is a Scottish entire, sent from Auchinleck, Ayrshire, to Edinburgh, dated Nov. 13th, 1806. It has, I believe, three interesting parts to it. First its postal markings, secondly its author, and thirdly its contents.

To begin with in regard to its postal markings the entire shows a Kilmarnock circular name-stamp type 21, that is, a single circle, name round circle split into two portions at top and bottom with dots between parts. Also it shows a dated Edinburgh Bishop Mark, 16th Nov. 1806, and a manuscript '7' indicating seven pence postage due (Fig. 1).

James Mackay in 'The Circular Name Stamps of Scotland' calls these postal markings "a remarkable series of handstamps." He lists 141 examples and 29 distinctive types, some of which are quite scarce. Thus they offer a good challenge to the collector both in number and rarity. It should be noted that the Postal Town for the village of Auchinleck was Kilmarnock hence the use of the latter's circular name stamp.

Secondly, the author of the entire was Alexander Boswell of Auchinleck. Hoping to find out something about him I turned to Roger's two volume work Scottish Monuments and Tombstones (published 1871), not always enthralling reading, but of immense value as it contains a great number of biographical sketches from the 14th century to the middle of the 19th century and fortunately it did provide some information about Alexander Boswell as a monument had been raised to his memory in Auchinleck Cemetery.

He was born in 1785 the eldest son of James Boswell, the biographer of Dr. Johnson, became the Member of Parliament for the County of Ayr and in 1821 received a knighthood. He was a devotee of Robert Burns and was responsible for the erection of a public monument to the poet's memory. Boswell produced two volumes of poems and songs where were highly popular in his own day. It is said, however, that he frequently wrote in sarcastic vein, and thus it came about that a James Stuart, the object of one of his satirical poems, challenged Boswell to a duel in which he was fatally wounded.

The duel produced quite a stir at the time. In the Scots Magazine of April 1822 I was able to find a fairly full account and the circumstances behind it. According to the Scots Magazine the offending poem was published (unsigned) in the Glasgow Sentinel newspaper. Mr. Stuart initially confronted the proprietor of the newspaper, a Mr. Brothwick, but after he produced the original papers that revealed Alexander Boswell as the author thereupon Boswell was challenged.

The duel took place a few miles north of Edinburgh at Auchtertool in the County of Fife. Facing each other at a distance of 12 paces, the Earl of Rosslyn, one of the seconds, called upon the parties to fire. Boswell was struck in the shoulder, the ball deflecting to the spine. He was immediately carried to Balmuto House, the home of Lord Balmuto, Boswell's friend. Doctors were sent for from Edinburgh, but Boswell died the following day, Wednesday, March 26th, 1822.

My Dear Sir

God knows it was with unfeigned tears that I read the account of your excellent Father's Death. In gratitude I owed him much and it is vain to attempt to express it. God bless you all.

Auchinleck
Nov. 13th 1806.

Alexander Boswell

The Scots Magazine continues that Mr. Stuart returned to Edinburgh immediately after the duel and later the same day crossed over the border into England. As Scottish and English law differ he may thus have escaped prosecution.

Interestingly in the same issue of the Scots Magazine it is mentioned that Mr. Brothwick, the newspaper proprietor, was being brought to trial for revealing privileged documents that led to the fatal duel. Unfortunately I have no knowledge of the outcome of this trial or what eventually happened to James Stuart.

On all accounts Alexander Boswell was a highly respected public figure and servant as well as a lover of the arts and himself a writer of some distinction. In the Scots idiom he could be esteemed rightly as "a man of pairs." Truly an unfortunate end to such a life.

Thirdly, the contents of the entire consist of a word of sympathy to William Forbes on the death of his father, Sir William Forbes, a notable Edinburgh Banker. (A fairly full biography of Sir William Forbes is given in Kay's Edinburgh Portraits and his son, to whom the letter was sent, was a close friend of Sir Walter Scott). With a certain eloquence and in a large and bold hand the letter reads (Fig. 2):

My Dear Sir

God knows it was with unfeigned tears that I read of your excellent Father's Death. In gratitude I owed him much and it is vain to attempt to express it. God bless you all.

Is the fervent wish of yours sincerely

Alexander Boswell

Altogether the three parts of this entire combine, I believe, to produce an interesting piece of Scottish Postal History. ❁

The Brigham Collection of Pence and Cents and that of the Large Queens were double winners at the Annual Convention of the American Philatelic Society held in Santa Clara, California in August 1998. It is the first time that two collections owned by the same person have won the Champion of Champions competition and the Open Class in the same year. The Large Queens, winners of the 1998 Open Class, are qualified for the 1999 Champion of Champions competition. Both collections have also won the Grand Award at Conventions of our own Society; the Pence and Cents in Calgary in September 1997 and the Large Queens at Hamilton in May 1998. Congratulations, Ron, for these triumphs.

This issue shows a selection of Pence and Cents rarities taken from the Champion of Champions exhibit. The March-April issue will show key items from Mr. Brigham's Large Queens.

Musical Instruments on Canadian Stamps

by Alena Pascual

Guitar

Although the guitar is not normally associated with Christmas, three of the four examples I have found are Christmas-related: two 1970 Cole covers and one of the stamps in the 1981 Christmas set (S 901) which includes a toy guitar.

In the fourth example, the 1989 Musicians stamps (S 1253), which commemorates the 30th anniversary of the Vancouver Opera, a boy is holding an electric guitar.

Harmonica

The harmonica, an easily portable instrument available at modest cost, is used extensively in the performance of folk music. It is known by various names: mouth organ; mouth harp; blues harp; and in Quebec, musique à bouche or ruine-babines.

Singer La Bolduc is shown playing the harmonica on a 1994 stamp (see entry under Accordion; Canadian Philatelist v. 49, n. 4, p. 262). A harmonica also appears in the First Day Cancel.

Harp

The origins of the harp go back to ancient times. The 1984 MSO stamp includes a modern concert harp. An angel holds a small harp in the cachet which appears on the OFDC for the 1997 Christmas stamps.

Another kind of harp, the Irish harp, or clarseach, which is used as a heraldic symbol, is part of Canada's coat-of-arms.

It is shown on the 1966 Canada coat-of-arms stamp (S 429A) and the 1987 Charter of Rights stamp (S 1133). Various OFDSs include the coat-of-arms on cachets; on the OFDC for the 17¢ Parliament definitive (S 790), issued in March 1979, the coat-of-arms appears in both the cachet and the First Day cancel. As well, the coat-of-arms is displayed on the covers of several King George V and George VI booklets.

The 1989 Musicians stamps (S 1253), which commemorates the 30th anniversary of the Vancouver Opera.

The French horn is the classic orchestral horn and appears on the 1976 Olympics Arts and Culture OFDC.

The mandora is a variety of lute is featured in this 1981 stamp (S 878) commemorating the "Look of Music" exhibition, of rare instruments held in Vancouver.

Horn

Included under this heading are the French horn and the posthorn. There are a number of examples of angels playing "horns", but these horns are actually trumpets and will be listed under the Trumpet heading.

The French horn is the classic orchestral horn. A stylized version appears on the 1976 Olympics Arts and Culture OFDC, both in the cachet and cancel, as well as in the 1984 MSO OFDC cachet.

Posthorns are found on the two 1957 UPU Congress stamps (S 371-2). As well, the First Day cancel (9 May 1986) for the Canadian Forces Postal Service stamp shows a posthorn. Steven Friedenthal's Hand Stamp Slogan Postal Markings of Canada lists several cancels which include posthorns: Caltapex 80, 1980 05 29 (HC-30); Caltapex 83, 1983 10 15 (HC-35); CAPEX 87, 1987 06 13 (HC-105); Musée Postal Museum, 1985 02 28 - 1989 06 29 (HM-75).

Lute

The lute, a plucked-string instrument with a round body shaped like a half-pear, is another instrument which is often associated with Christmas and angels. All three examples are Christmas-related: the cachet on one of the 1970 Cole covers mentioned under the guitar entry includes a girl playing a lute. The 1974 six-cent Christmas stamp (S 650) and the OFDC show an angle with a lute, as does the 1986 39-cent Christmas stamp (S 1114).

Lyre

The First Day cancel for the 1994 Christmas stamps includes a lyre. Depicted on the cancel is the logo of the Toronto Mendelssohn Choir (TMC), which is based on the original logo which dates from 1906 (although at that time it was not officially the choir's logo). It is similar to the logo of Toronto's Massey Hall. The 1994 Christmas issue coincided with the centennial of both the TMC and Massey Hall.

Mandora

The mandora (or mandola) is a variety of lute, a predecessor of the mandolin. The 1981 stamp (S 878) commemorating the "Look of Music" exhibition, an exhibition of rare musical instruments held in Vancouver, features an 18th century mandora. As well, part of a mandora (the pegs which are turned to regulate the pitch of the strings) can be seen in the First Day cancel.

VIGNETTES OF EARLY BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN POSTAL HISTORY

by J.C. Arnell, FRPSC

Expansion of the Postal Service into Lake Ontario Country in the Late 18th Century.

Until the American Revolution, there had been no settlement along the shores of Lake Ontario. Apart from the original 13 colonies, the British interest had been focused on Nova Scotia and the St. Lawrence River Valley, or in other words, the territory captured from the French two decades earlier. William Smith in his book The History of the Post Office in British North America recorded that "The first settlement in Upper Canada was at Niagara, where four or five families took up land in 1780. These were reinforced in 1784, by a number of the men of Butler's Rangers, and at the end of that year, the settlement was increased to over six hundred."

Over the next few years, settlers took up land from Niagara to the head of the lake, where Hamilton is today.

During this period, a Courier Mail operated between Montreal and Niagara and took roughly half a year to complete a round trip, for the courier travelled mostly on foot. The late Allan Steinhart had recorded an announcement from the Deputy Postmaster General at Quebec City on January 14, 1789 that "mails for the New Settlements above Montreal, for Niagara and Detroit, will be closed at this office on Thursday the 22nd of this month, at four o'clock afternoon, and forwarded from Montreal on Saturday the 24th." He noted that when this was repeated in the Quebec Gazette, it was the first announcement in the newspaper of a regular Mail to go to the western country.

This was followed by an official P.O. Notice over the name of Hugh Finlay, the Deputy Postmaster General dated May 28, 1789:

"Post-Offices have lately been established in the New District Westward of Montreal, as high as Kingston, formerly Cataracoui. A post will be dispatched from Montreal once every four weeks, and the first Mail will be sent off on Monday the 8th of June and will convey letters from La Chine, the Cedars, Coteau du Lac, Charlottenburg, Cornwall, New Johnston, Lancaster, Oznaburg, Matilda, Williamsburg, Edwardsburg, Oswegatché

[Ogdensburg, N.Y.], Augusta, Elizabethtown, Kingstown, and all letters directed to Pittsburg, Ernestown, Frederichsburg, Adolphustown, Marysburg, Sophiasburg, Ameliasburg, in the Bay of Quinte, will be forwarded to the Post-Office at Kingston;

Letters for Niagara, Detroit and Michilimackine (at each of which places there is a Post Office) will be forwarded from Kingston under the seal of the Post-Office and sent by the earliest opportunities in a manner to secure dispatch and safety."

A subsequent notice reflected the absence of any settlements along the north shore of Lake Ontario, as it showed that the post route westward from Kingston went along the south shore of the Lake to service the British forts, which were Fort Ontario at Oswego, Fort Niagara, Detroit and Michilimackinac; these forts were turned over to the United States in 1796. This notice, appearing in the December 24, 1789 Quebec Gazette, read:

"A mail for the Settlements above Montreal as far as Kingston (formerly Cataracoui) and onward to Oswego, Naigara and Detroit will be closed at this Office on Thursday the 21st next, at four o'clock afternoon.

Notice is hereby given, that an Express will be dispatched from Montreal for Niagara on Monday the 14th instant.

Letters from hence for any of the Settlements westward of Montreal, must be put into this Office on Thursday next at 4 o'clock P.M. The postage to be paid here.

Such Letters as may be for Detroit, will be forwarded from Niagara without loss of time."

The requirement that postage on letters for the western points had to be paid at Quebec or Montreal reflects both the general lack of coinage in new settlements to pay postage due and the absence of a proper system for accounting for such collections on delivery. It also raises the question of how the postage due was collected on such letters which might have come by Falmouth packet to Halifax with only the packet postage paid to Halifax, and all the inland postage still due. ♣

The Centenary Celebrations

To celebrate the 100th anniversary of the postage stamps issued by the Provisional Government of Romagne, the Italian and San Marino Postal Administrations each issued on 1 September 1959 a set of two stamps.

Italy

The stamps were printed by the Istituto Poligrafico dello Stato (IPS) in rotogravure on white paper, watermark multiple stars-type I, perforated 14x14-1/4. The printing was: 20 million for the 25L and 10 million for the 60L.

The design is identical for the two stamps reproducing, in reduced format, the 8 Bajocchi (25L) and the 20 Bajocchi (60L). The stamps were designed by D. Mancini. (fig. 7)

San Marino

The stamps were also printed by IPS in rotogravure on white paper, watermark multiple stars-type I, perforated 14x14-1/4. The printing was: 180,000 complete sets. Designed by R. Franzoni, the 30L depicts the Augustus Arch in Rimini and the reproduction of 1/2 Bajocco stamp of Romagne. The 120L air mail stamp depicts a view of Bologna with its towers and the reproduction of the 3 Bajocchi stamps of Romagne. (fig. 8) ♣

Conventions & Exhibitions

ILSAPEX 98 in South Africa

By W.G. Robinson, Canadian Commissioner, RFPSC

A short report on ILSAPEX '98 in South Africa: We had a good time, but are still recovering from the jet lag. There were three Large Vermeils – Fred Fawn's Map Stamp, Bob Bayes' Special Deliveries, and Bill Bailey and Ritch Toop's book on Canadian military markings; four Large Silvers – Cliff Guile's German Inflation, George Buza's Hungarian Inflation, my Boer War, and Darnell's bilingual catalogue; three Silvers – John Powell's Iraq Postal Tax, Malott's Canadian Air Letters, and the Toronto Stamp Collectors' Club History, and one Silver-Bronze for John Peebles' Canadian Connection newsletter.

Only two couples attended from Canada – Michael and Sue Madesker, and Megan and myself. Michael was in charge of the jurors for the Youth section of the exhibition. The Jury and Commissioners had two day trips – one to Pretoria, and then to a Cheetah experimental farm, the other to the Pilansberg National Park and the Sun City complex (almost Disney Land with casino). Meals were excellent, and most transport arrangements good.

The exhibits were excellent, the new exhibition complex superb – but about 15 miles of freeway from our hotel. The only glitches occurred with bus scheduling between them. The Palmares dinner was held at the Sandton Sun Intercontinental Hotel – a first class establishment – and featured Kingklip, a native sea fish. We really missed David Stern, the show chairman, who died in July, but his successor, Henk de Lange, delivered a fine speech from David's draft; and Yvonne Stern, David's widow, delivered a moving eulogy.

A successful philatelic exhibition, was held in Victoria, B.C. on October 3 and 4. Hosted by the Vancouver Island and Greater Victoria Philatelic Societies and the Junior Stamp Club, VICPEX is a fall philatelic event. A notable feature of this show was the large number of attendees who are not known in the local philatelic community. As it is obvious that not all enthusiastic collectors are members of the very active local philatelic societies, promotional material was distributed encouraging them to join a club.

VICPEX '98 featured a wide range of very well-presented exhibits covering many philatelic areas. Over the last few years the organizing committee and the judges have noticed a great improvement in the presentation of exhibits. This is especially true with regard to the junior exhibits.

The following awards were presented: Gold Awards "Domestic Postcards of Germany" Don Shorting. Also the Lester Small Trophy. "Broken Circle Postmarks of Canada" Gray Scrimgeour. Also the W. (Bill) Sach Trophy and the Gerald E. Wellburn Trophy. "Selected Pages of New South Wales" Charles Arnold*. Also the Centennial Trophy (Jubilee Cup) "Airmail of the Red Lake Mining District" Tom Watkins*.

The Foundation a Sponsor of The Canadian Philatelist.

Although the Foundation's Opusculum I was a critical success, garnering many high awards in international and national philatelic literature competitions, it was not as much of a financial success as we had hoped. Sales of the book were to help defray the cost of the next Opusculum. This now is no longer a financially viable proposition.

We have, over the last few years, gathered a number of articles for Opusculum II. I am pleased to inform you that most of the authors have agreed to have their Opusculum articles published in The Canadian Philatelist instead. For this we thank them. Starting with the next issue, you will find in each number of The Canadian Philatelist, an article sponsored by the Foundation. The six articles presented each year will be in competition for the Michener Medal. This sterling silver medal, named after The Right Honourable Roland Michener, a former Governor General of Canada and a philatelist, was originally to be awarded to the best article in an Opusculum.

The Foundation is pleased to be a partner with The Canadian Philatelist in bringing you outstanding articles written by well known national and international philatelists.

Should you have a well-illustrated, original research article for publication please consider the Foundation and The Canadian Philatelist, contact us.

Tax Deductible Gifts to the Foundation

Do you have philatelic material that you can't use? Have your collecting interests changed? Does your philatelic library need weeding out? Please feel free to donate your extra material to the Foundation. We will get it appraised and will issue a tax receipt for its replacement value.

If you are interested please send in details of your gift to our Executive Director, Kim Geddes, P.O. Box 929, Station Q, Toronto, ON M4T 2P1. ♣

La Fondation: un commanditaire du Philatéliste canadien.

La reconnaissance reçue par notre publication Opusculum I dans les compétitions de littérature philatélique nationales et internationales ne sait pas traduire par un succès financier. Nous espérons que la vente du livre permettrait de défrayer les coûts de publication d'Opusculum II. Ce n'est plus une possibilité viable.

Dans les deux dernières années nous avons accumulé plusieurs articles pour Opusculum II. Il me fait plaisir de vous informer que la plupart des auteurs ont accepté que leurs articles soient publiés dans Le philatéliste canadien. Nous leurs sommes grandement reconnaissant. Chacun des numéros du Philatéliste canadien contiendra un article commandité par la Fondation. Les six articles présentés dans une année seront en compétition pour la médaille Michener. Cette médaille en argent, nommée en mémoire de l'ancien Gouverneur-général du Canada, Roland Michener, un philatéliste, devait à l'origine être remise au meilleur article dans un Opusculum.

La Fondation est heureuse d'entrer en partenariat avec Le philatéliste canadien pour vous présenter de superbes articles écrits par des philatélistes canadiens et internationaux bien connus.

Si vous avez un article de recherche original et illustré prêt à être publié veuillez considérer la Fondation et Le philatéliste canadien. Veuillez communiquer avec nous.

Also the Allan Steinhart Trophy. This exhibit was also voted the most popular. Vermeil Awards "Columbus' Third Voyage" Chester Masters. Also a Northwest Federation Merit Award. "Montreal Bilingual Slogan Cancels" Don Shorting. Also the Clarke Horning Trophy. "Newfoundland Postal Stationery (1873-1911)" Ron Battersby.

Also the Eric Hamber Trophy and a Northwest Federation Merit Award, Silver Awards "Norfolk Island" Elmer Kennedy. "Great Britain - The Second One Penny" Robin Clarke. Also the Frank Dymont Memorial Trophy. Silver Bronze Awards "Birds of Prey" Marjorie Sheldrake. "Butterflies and Moths" Marjorie Sheldrake, Bronze Awards "Postmarks of B.C." Marjorie Sheldrake. Honourable Mention "Every Living Thing" Joel Dooley.

The junior exhibits showed a good deal of creative thinking and careful presentation. Gold Award "Great Scots!" Graham Moffat, age 14. Also the Junior Trophy. Silver Awards "Disney Characters" Naomi Aro, age 12. Also the Canada Post Youth Award, "Animals" Amie Robinson, age 13. "If Beanie Babies Were Stamps" Kerensa Mattison, age 12.

An extensive dealers' bourse helped to make the show a success. A great deal of philatelic material was available for both beginners and advanced collectors. Canada

Post was represented by Bill Bartlett who had a wealth of attractive material at face value. Needless to say this was a very popular table.

Canadian Philatelic Society of Great Britain' Annual Convention

by N.J.A. Hillson, FCPS

The President Neil Prior welcomed some 70 members and guests, including several Canadians as well as others from overseas, to the 52nd four-day Convention held in the ancient Welsh town of Carmarthen whose history goes back to the Roman invasion and almost two millennia ago.

David Sessions and Colin Lewis gave talks on Bogus Locals and what Colin described as 'Newfoundland Leftovers' so called because much of his postal history material was not back from the recent Stampex where as a first time entrant he had walked off with a Gold. Bill Topping entertained us with a very comprehensive display of 'Yukon Airways' with much proof material, booklets, covers, flown and unflown, and bogus 'colour trials.' After that members gave mini-displays, one of which provoked a discussion on the contraction and expansion of perforations in ambient temperatures! Evening displays included topics shown by Welsh members, Sandie Mackie's 'Rural Mails' which was an eye-opener and Leigh Hogg's vast assembly of 'Registered Mail in the Leaf and Numeral Era' where members benefited not only by the exhibit but by enforced physical jerks at regular intervals during the talk. Everyone survived.

Martin Cusworth repeated last year's success in competition, his Prince Edward Island display being awarded the Godden Trophy for the second time, while in the strongly contended postal history section, Colin Lewis' run of success was repeated as being adjudged a worthy winner of that section with a display of mail coming into British ports in the Nineteenth Century and was awarded the Henderson Quaich for research, while Dorothy Sanderson's Transatlantic Mail was a close runner-up.

The Saturday afternoon auction attracted some fierce bidding, and the Convention was rounded off with the banquet at which the Guest of Honour, Dr. Eiron Morgan gave a most entertaining and amusing speech. The evening ended with the inauguration of the new President, Mr. Les Taylor who is looking forward to welcoming a large contingent from both home and overseas in Glasgow, 6-10 October 1999.

To the President and Members of The Royal Philatelic Society of Canada

On behalf of the members of the Canadian Philatelic Society of Great Britain I would like to congratulate The RPSC and The Canadian Philatelist/Le philatéliste canadien on reaching the significant milestone of Volume 50 - a wonderful record of erudite and insightful philatelic publishing. Members of the CPS of GB and of course in particular the present and past editors of Maple Leaves are well aware of the scale of the challenge you have so successfully met in maintaining and developing a journal of such quality over such an extended period.

It is particularly encouraging to see your Society and its journal so effectively promoted on your Society website and I trust that your Society's efforts in the electronic arena will provide a further springboard for continuing success over the next 50 years and beyond - without, of course, in any way substituting for the fundamental role of the specialized journal in providing a permanent record of information and achievement as The Canadian Philatelist/Le philatéliste canadien has done in so exemplary a fashion up till now and will surely continue to do in its new and colourful format in the years to come.

Good Luck, Congratulations, and all Best Wishes,
Leslie Taylor

The Stamps of Egypt with Egypt used in Palestine and Sudan

The Stamps of Egypt with Egypt used in Palestine and Sudan by L. Balian, published by the author, 1998, pp. xx + 535, no ISBN number. Available in North America from C.F. Hass, P.O. Box 3435, Nashua, NH 03061-3425, USA. Tel.: (603) 888-4160, Fax: (603) 888-6954 and e-mail: hassstamps@aol.com

M. Leon Y. Balian has completed a labour of love with the publication of the first complete catalogue of the stamps of Egypt since the 1972 edition of the Zeheri Catalogue. The lack of publication information such as an ISBN number in Balian's catalogue pales in comparison to the quality of the detailed information, the colour photography and the extensive coverage of the material. Balian starts with a series of sections that give the catalogue its depth. Amongst these are a table of abbreviations, the use of Arabic writing, a cross reference of exchange rates catalogue values are quoted in Egyptian pounds (£E) and a watermarks section extensively illustrated. Both the exchange rate table (UK£, US$, French Francs and German Marks) and the watermark illustrations are found at both ends of the book for ease of use. A full page gives an illustrated guide to a sample listing and the book would have benefited by this excellent tool being produced in book mark form for easy transport to the catalogues pages.

The body of the catalogue is divided into two parts. Part One covers the definitive and commemorative stamps and their control numbers. Included in this part are the Egyptian control of Gaza (Palestine) definitives and commemoratives and their control numbers. Part One does an excellent job of defining the different stamps, their varieties and flaws. The stamps are illustrated in colour (reduced to 85 per cent), the varieties in black and white but with clear detail and excellent explanations. Not only are the classic stamps well treated but the modern issues, with their wealth of watermark, paper and gum varieties have been studied extensively. Explanatory notes, where appropriate, are well done and the addition of the extensive listing of the Royal Printings of King Fuad and King Farouk add a real dimension to the fairy tale nature of these printings. Part Two covers the back-of-the-book items such as the essays (until 1923), The Suez Canal Company, the British Forces in Egypt, postal stationery, the Posta Europea, Interpostal Seals, classical postmarks and Egypt used abroad with a particular emphasis of the use of Egyptian stamps in the Sudan.

Mr. Balian adds two small but important touches to the catalogue. Included with it is a reproduction of an 1831 English made map of Egypt.

Perhaps a later map showing post towns would have been more appropriate. An original addition is that of quoting references in two specialized journals (l'OP and QC) when that information is relevant and interesting but beyond the scope of the catalogue. I searched high and low to find out what these publications were and expected to find reference to them in the explanatory sections of the catalogue but could not. I eventually found the information on two separate pages which were provided to specialized societies to publicize themselves. For the record l'OP is L'Orient Philatélique and is the journal of The Philatelic Society, while QC is The Quarterly Circular, the house organ for The Egypt Study Circle.

This hardbound, saddle-stitched, catalogue was sorely needed and will act as a definitive work for years to come and at $105 U.S. post-paid is well worth it. ♣

Exchanges Wanted / Demandes d'échange

Since the Royal Philatelic Society of Canada is the national society of philatelists in Canada, many requests for exchange partners are referred to us. As a service to our members, we are pleased to present these names, so that those who wish to do so can make overseas contacts. Please note that we have no way of checking the credentials of the individuals who write to us asking that their names be published; therefore, we urge that caution be taken when answering these requests.

La Société royale de philatélie du Canada ne s'occupe pas normalement des échanges entre philatélistes, mais comme elle est la société philatélique nationale du Canada, ou lui transmet de nombreuses demandes de philatélistes désireux de trouver des correspondants pour échanger des timbres. Ainsi atelle décidé, pour rendre service à ses membres, de publier les noms intéressés d'outremer, afin que ceux qui désirent établir des rapports avec eux puissent la faire. Je vous signale toutefois que nous ne savons rien des personnes qui nous demandent de publier leur nom, c'est pourquoi je vous conseille d'être prudent en répondant à ces demandes d'échange.
