CELEBRATE THE YEAR OF THE RAM

Canada Post proudly welcomes the Year of the Ram with an exquisite stamp and souvenir sheet created for the immensely popular Lunar New Year series. Two stylized alabaster carvings of this gentle beast are set against bold red and orange backgrounds, in textures reminiscent of flowing silk, to reflect the traditional colours of the Chinese Lunar New Year. Embellished with Chinese characters that read 'Year of the Ram,' these collectible works of art feature foil stamping, special die-cutting and embossing treatments. Add these treasures to your collection today.

CÉLÉBREZ L'ANNÉE DU BOUC ET DU BÉLIER

Postes Canada est fière de souligner l'année du Bouc et du Bélier par l'émission d'un timbre et d'un bloc-feuillet, dans le cadre de la très populaire série consacrée à la Nouvelle Année lunaire. Les motifs des deux figurines sont formés d'une sculpture stylisée en albâtre de l'un de ces deux sympathiques animaux. Les œuvres se détachent sur un fond rouge et orangé, couleurs traditionnelles du Nouvel An chinois, et leur texture évoque le velouté de la soie. Ornés de caractères chinois signifiant « Année du Bouc et du Bélier », le timbre et le bloc-feuillet ont été réalisés au moyen de l'estampage métallique, du découpage à l'emporte-pièce et du gaufrage. Ajoutez ces chefs-d'œuvre philatéliques à votre collection dès aujourd'hui.

THE COVER / PAGE COUVERTURE:

In the hands of artist Ken Shayne, postage stamps can serve a purpose other than prepayment of postage. A collage of different coloured stamps cut into intricate shapes and patterns forms a symmetrical, kaleidoscopic image - all without the use of mirrors. The work was originally submitted for publication in Opusculum I.

Dans les mains de l'artiste, Ken Shayne, les timbres-poste peuvent servir à d'autres fins que le paiement des frais de poste. Un découpage de timbres-poste multicolores coupés en différents motifs forme un image kaléidoscopique et symétrique--sans l'utilisation de miroirs. A l'origine cette oeuvre fut soumise pour publication dans Opusculum I.

Teenage Collector Meets Queen

By Tony Shaman

When 14-year-old Kristen Ollie began collecting stamps in the third grade she could never have imagined the doors that her hobby would open for her. During her relatively short collecting career the Grade 9 student, who attends Northwestern High School in Stratford, Ontario, has exhibited her collection to critical acclaim at the Smithsonian Museum of Postal History in Washington, DC, earned the top award at a national-level show for her thematic entry and, in October 2002, met Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II.

"Anything that I do now will be just 'whoopeduh'" the youngster was quoted as saying when asked for her reaction to meeting the Queen.

Of the approximately 100 exhibitors and thousands of guests on hand at Toronto's mammoth National Trade Centre where organizers set up the Festival of Ontario to show the Queen the accomplishments of Ontarians, and progress made in the province during her fifty-year reign, Kristen was one of the lucky few to actually meet the Royal visitor.

Kristen's mother and father, who was born in England, gave their daughter the middle name Elizabeth in honour of the Queen. It was that connection to Her Majesty that motivated Kristen to sketch the Queen's biography using a stamp exhibit as the medium.

The teenager began working on the exhibit when she was in Grade 5 and it has now grown to 48 pages. Entitled "Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II," the exhibit has won numerous awards at various stamp shows.

When Kristen first learned of the Queen's visit to Canada she wrote to Governor General Adrienne Clarkson asking if she could let the Queen know of her exhibit, and also asked if Her Majesty could see it when she came to Canada for her Golden Jubilee tour. After a couple of polite rejection letters, one can only imagine how excited the youngster was when she received an acceptance letter from the provincial government inviting her to bring her exhibit to the Festival of Ontario that the Queen was scheduled to attend. "It was pretty hard to keep it (the invitation) quiet at first," admitted Kristen.

But there was much more excitement ahead for the budding philatelist and her family. Rather than just being one of the many exhibitors who hoped to catch a glimpse of the Queen, Kristen had her exhibit selected as one of the few that Her Majesty would visit. The red carpet laid out for the Queen's walkabout snaked its way through the huge exhibition floor and into Kristen's booth housing her exhibit. The Queen was apparently interested in the stamp display: she stopped to chat with the excited youngster and inquired about the exhibit. "She had a sparkle in her face," remembers Kristen. "Her smile was perfect," she added.

Kristen's mother, who accompanied her daughter to the Festival of Ontario in Toronto, said the Queen spent about two minutes chatting with her daughter. "I don't recall if she said 'marvellous' or 'splendid,'" explained Kristen's mother who was as excited as her daughter when the Queen stopped at the booth. "She (the Queen) was delighted with the exhibit," recalls Mrs. Ollies.

Collecting stamps has become a family affair for the Ollies. Kristen's younger brother, Michael, aged 12, was the first family member to get the collecting bug from his sister. His collection of stamps depicting solar exploration, titled "Out of this World, Exploring Our Solar System," has also won numerous awards at local and national levels. "The preparation of an exhibit often requires that the dining room table is buried for weeks at a time," explains Mrs. Ollies.

Not only are the two youngsters deeply involved in collecting, both parents have also become collectors. Mrs. Ollies has begun collecting nativity stamps and her husband concentrates on lighthouses.

"Philately need not be an expensive hobby," comments Mrs. Ollies. "We look at our children's stamp budget like other parents look at the money they spend on their children's dance or music lessons." The real investment in their children's pursuit of the hobby is in time, explains Mrs. Ollies. She believes, and rightly so, that the investment of time and money in their children's hobby is paying dividends. Kristen's teachers have expressed their belief that her involvement in stamps has helped in her academic studies.

And what does this bright 14-year-old aspire to in a career? "She hopes to eventually become a school teacher," says her mother.

Members of our Society and visitors to ROYAL *2003* ROYALE will be able to see Kristen's work in Hanover where it will be on display for the duration of the three-day show. ✨

WERNER HEISENBERG

Germany's Great Theoretical Physicist

By J.J. Edward

Werner Heisenberg was born on April 5, 1901 in Würzburg, the son of grammar school teacher August Heisenberg. He studied theoretical physics under Arnold Sommerfeld in Munich. When he was 22 years old, he received his doctorate. He became an assistant to Max Born at the University of Göttingen. Together with Max Born and Pascual Jordan, he developed and completed the theory of quantum mechanics. In 1927 he presented the Heisenberg Uncertainty Relation according to which it is impossible to determine with absolute precision the position and momentum of an electron. He received the appointment of Professor of Theoretical Physics at the University of Leipzig when he was 25 years old. In 1932, when he was only 31 years old, he was awarded the Nobel Prize.

In December 1938, shortly before the outbreak of WW II, construction of an atomic bomb became theoretically possible with the discovery in Germany of nuclear fusion. Germany controlled Europe's only uranium mines and in May 1940 her armies seized the world's only heavy water plant in Norway. It appeared that Germany was in a position to develop an atomic bomb. Her failure to do so was due to a number of factors: The Nazi's meddled in scientific matters that they did not understand and German scientists had an abhorrence of the destruction and loss of life that a bomb would cause. Many Jewish scientists had been fired from their positions by Hitler's order in April 1933. One of those who lost his job was Fritz Reiche, father of the late Hans Reiche, F.R.P.S.C. Reiche was the physicist at the University of Breslau and had been an assistant to Max Planck. He was also one of only eight students to take their doctorate under Planck. Reiche was well known to Albert Einstein, Fritz Houterman, Otto Hahn, Werner Heisenberg, Carl Frederich von Weizächer and many others in the German scientific community.

The Allies considered Heisenberg a genius and feared him the most for his knowledge of atomic fusion. He had many offers to go to the USA and other countries but was unbending. He wanted to share Germany's fate and help rebuild the scientific community after the war. He never joined the Nazi party and felt that the Hitler regime would collapse. The Allies believed that Heisenberg was the one man in Germany capable of building an atomic bomb. Niels Bohr at Princeton University discovered that it was not uranium that fissioned but it was the scarce isotope U-235. It was understood that the energy released from uranium was 20 million times greater than TNT, a chain reaction would take a millionth of a second to sweep through a kilogram of U-235.

In 1941 when the USA had not yet joined the war, Fritz Houterman wanted to tell American friends something short of a military secret. For six bleak years the physicist Fritz Reiche and his family lived in quiet desperation in Berlin. When Houterman learned that Reiche's efforts to emigrate to the USA might be successful, he asked Reiche to memorize and carry a message of about 100 words to be given to friendly American physicists. After much difficulty, the Reiches left for America only six weeks before emigration of Jews was banned in May 1941. A day or two before their departure, Houterman visited Fritz Reiche. Although the risk was very great, Reiche committed the message to memory. The message said that German physicists were working hard, including Mr. Heisenberg, to hinder the idea of making a bomb but that the pressure from the government was great. Tell the American friends that they should accelerate the "thing" if they have already begun. After a long train trip to Lisbon, the Reiches boarded the Excalibar for the USA and disembarked at Ellis Island. Fritz Reiche soon passed on the message to Albert Einstein and the other physicists in America.

The creation of an atomic bomb in the USA was principally the work of two men, Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer of Berkeley, CA. and General Leslie Groves of the Corps of Engineers. Known as the Manhattan Project, it operated in deep secret from a lab established in 1942 at Los Alamos in the New Mexico desert. Among the leading scientists working on the very secret program were Hans Bethe, Niels Bohr, and Canada's Walter Zinn of Waterloo, Ontario. Dr. Zinn did experiments to measure neutron emission. American intelligence worked ceaselessly and thoroughly to determine how far the Germans had proceeded in designing an atomic bomb. One June 5, 1944, Rome fell to the Allies. Immediately, a great effort began to find the European physicists before the Russians or French found them.

Farm Hall, near Cambridge, England, where Heisenberg and nine other German scientists were held for six months "at His Majesty's pleasure," and where they heard the news of Hiroshima.

"Alsos", a small, efficient US Intelligence unit found the German scientists. Most of them were located in the French Zone of Germany. Ten of them were put under "friendly arrest" and taken to Heidelberg. On July 3, 1945 the 10 physicists were flown to England and moved into "The Farm Hall", Cambridge, where they were comfortably accommodated. On Monday, August 6, 1945 the BBC broadcast at 6:00 p.m. that the Americans had dropped an atomic bomb on Japan (Hiroshima). After more details were heard on the 9 o'clock news the same evening, Heisenberg was able to explain, quite accurately, how the bomb was built. On January 3, 1946 the German scientists were returned to their homes in Germany.

Werner Heisenberg continued to work intensely on Cosmic rays and on a fundamental condition in the unified field theory of elementary particles. He authored many scientific papers and lectured extensively in the universities in Europe and America. He was the Director of the Max Planck Institute for Physics, first in Göttingen, and after 1958 in Munich. On December 31, 1970 Heisenberg stepped down from his post as Director of the Institute which he had held for almost 30 years. He died in Munich on February 1, 1976. ♣

The Maresch auction catalogue description read:

35iii: LEMON YELLOW, perf 11 1/2 x 12, tied by ST. ANDREWS N.B. NO '79 to legal form to GRAND MANAN (N.B.) and back after completion 13 DE, very fine.

Returns of CONVICT

By George B. Arfken

I wanted a dated lemon yellow 1¢ Small Queen and the catalogue colour photo light yellow on blue paper was attractive so I bid and bought the item. Figure 1 shows this legal document as pictured in the catalogue.

Figure 1. Mailed from St. Andrews, N.B. to Grand Manan, an island off the coast, on November 27, 1879 and returned to St. Andrews December 13, 1879.

When I carefully unfolded my purchase, there was a nice surprise. The legal form was found to be A Return of Convictions. The form is approximately 31 x 19 cm. Figure 2 shows the opened form much reduced in size.

Dated at Grand Manan, Dec. 10, 1879 and signed by Magnus Green, F.P., this is a report by the Grand Manan Justice of the Peace of all convictions during the past twelve months. Grand Manan had been quite peaceful for Justice Green wrote:

"I have had no cases and no convictions since last return."

TIONS

Alexander returned this form under separate cover. Did he pay the 3¢ letter rate?

One of the joys in collecting forms like this is that you can read a little of what people have done and how their actions were handled. This January 1883 return shows two convictions. William Small was convicted of shooting a dog and was fined $5.00. The money was put into an account for the poor. Henrietta Guptell was convicted of breaking windows and was fined $4.00. The money was paid to the prosecutor. Had Henrietta broken the prosecutor's window? With only two convictions in twelve months, Grand Manan was still fairly peaceful.

Returns of Convictions show up occasionally in auctions and in some dealer's stocks. They are usually franked with 1¢ Small Queens and are often unidentified. 🍁

Holograms on Stamps

Illustrations of a Few Hologram Stamps

The first country to have issued a stamp with a hologram was Austria. It printed an 8 Schilling stamp on a sheetlet of eight stamps. The blue colour stamp contained a rectangular hologram depicting an A.

This stamp was issued to commemorate exports and to indicate its importance to the Austrian economy. Since then, a number of other countries have issued stamps on holograms, which are listed in Table 1.

Illustrations of holographic stamps by countries that were first to produce holograms in unique shapes or unique printing methods are listed as follows.

Holograms on Souvenir Sheets

The first country to have issued a souvenir sheet with a hologram was Brazil. It printed a strip of holographic material at the bottom of the souvenir sheet. Table 2 lists the hologram stamps on souvenir sheets.

Holograms in Booklets

Tonga was the first country to produce a hologram on a booklet. It appears on the cover of the booklet. Shortly after Tonga issued the booklet, Finland produced a booklet with eight different stamps, each of which contained a hologram. Several years later Netherlands produced a booklet of five stamps with two different holographic stamps, which had two messages with the hologram - 'I love stamps' and 'stamps love me'.

Holograms of Postal Stationery Envelopes

The first and the only country to have issued a stamp as part of the postal stationery was the USA. To date, the US Postal Service has issued two different types of holograms on stationery although they were issued with different postal rates.

Holograms on Post Cards

The first country to have issued a holographic stamp as part of a post card is Finland. However, the country that produced the most such post cards is Hong Kong.

Hologram Post cards from Hungary also exist but they are not part of the stamp or postage to be paid. Also, post cards exist commemorating certain events with a holographic stamp attached but which is not part of the post card. Examples are Australia, Thailand, and Kyrgistan.

Concluding Remarks

A number of holographic stamps issued to date celebrate man's achievements in space technology. These achievements can be maintained by paying attention to the need for peaceful uses of outer space. To promote this need the United Nations in 1982 issued stamps specifically on this theme. We should heed its good advice. It is particularly relevant if we plan to live in outer space.

In October 2000, Australia issued special stamps on outer space and one of their astronauts, Andy Thomas, predicted that by learning more about Mars and by living there, we will eventually start a formal colonization of the planet. Perhaps it will take 50 years to get to that stage but he indicated that it is very real and will happen. Movies on outer space such as Star Wars by George Lucas and television series such as Andromeda remind us what can happen if we do not live in peace. The ray of light that creates visions when the hologram is moved may lead us to the truth that everyone gains if we live in love, peace, and harmony. ✨

WINS Canadiana Poll

by John Peebles

Part II

FOURTH PLACE: LIBERIA

The fourth most popular Canadiana stamp for last year was one from Liberia picturing former Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau.

Pierre Trudeau died from prostate cancer in Montreal on September 28, 2000, just three weeks before his 81st birthday. Statesman, intellectual, professor, adversary, outdoorsman, lawyer, journalist, author, prime minister.

The former prime minister was certainly a flamboyant and charismatic politician. The Right Honourable Pierre Philippe Yves Elliott Trudeau was Canada's prime minister for most of the years between 1968 and 1984.

Trudeau was born in Montreal, Quebec on October 18, 1919. He was the son of a French-speaking father and English-speaking mother. A brilliant scholar, he was educated at the University of Montreal (law), Harvard University (Master's program) and also studied at École des sciences politiques in Paris and the London School of Economics.

An ardent Canadian nationalist, he entered politics in 1965. He joined the Liberal Party and won a seat in Parliament on his first attempt. He was given the portfolio of Justice Minister (1967-1968) and there he made his first mark on the nation with the liberalization of laws dealing with sexuality in the Criminal Code. "There is no place for the state in the bedrooms of the nation" was one of his most famous quotes.

At the age of 48 he became the leader of the Liberal Party when Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson retired. Later that same year he became Prime Minister in a general election as the Canadian electorate was enthralled with Trudeau's unconventional and flamboyant style which was in sharp contrast to the somewhat stodgy Canadian politics of the past. The world of Canadian politics, for perhaps the first time, was exciting.

Pierre Trudeau promised Canadians a "just society." He won three consecutive elections. In all he governed Canada for 16 years.

In 1979, the Liberals lost the election of that year to Joe Clark and the Progressive Conservatives. Trudeau resigned from the party for a short time but returned to lead the Liberals to yet another election victory in 1980. In that year a referendum on Quebec independence was held. Trudeau campaigned hard against the notion and the referendum was easily defeated.

Among Pierre Trudeau's lasting achievements was the repatriation of the Canadian constitution, which had been in England. An entrenched Charter of Rights and Freedoms, as part of the new constitution, may be his greatest legacy.

Trudeau left politics in 1984. He returned to Montreal where he worked in a legal office. Public appearances were rare. His free time was devoted to his three sons Justin, Sasha and Michel.

In 1998 his son Michel died in an avalanche while skiing in British Columbia. Friends say that Trudeau never fully recovered from that tragedy. In his last two years, Trudeau suffered from Parkinson's disease, pneumonia, prostate cancer and a stroke.

His two sons, Justin and Sasha, and his ex-wife Margaret, were at his bedside when he died.

A state funeral was held for the late prime minister at Montreal's Notre-Dame basilica on October 3, 2000. He was buried next to his mother, Grace Elliott, in a private ceremony.

More than 50,000 mourners had paid homage to Trudeau as his body lay in state in the Parliament Buildings in Ottawa. A funeral train carried the body to Montreal from Ottawa. Then at Montreal's City Hall several thousands more paid their respects. At his funeral, political allies and foes alike, came to honour the man who had so dominated Canadian political life for more than a generation.

Pierre Trudeau succeeded in claiming for Canada a place on the world stage. From Cuba's Fidel Castro to former U.S. president Jimmy Carter to former French prime minister Raymond Barre, scores of diplomats and foreign leaders journeyed to Montreal to say good-bye to one of Canada's most well-known prime ministers.

Pierre Elliott Trudeau dominated Canadian politics like few others. His status as a political giant in Canadian history is indisputable.

On April 16, 2001, Liberia issued a sheetlet of four $30 stamps in honour of the former Canadian prime minister. The stamp, bearing a contemplative portrait of Trudeau with a Canadian flag behind him, was designed by Joel Iskowitz. The sheetlets were printed in England by Walsall Security Printers Limited using multicolour offset lithography.

A press release from the Inter-Governmental Philatelic Corporation, which acts on behalf of Liberia, stated in a press release that "Trudeau was perhaps the most charismatic of all Canadian prime ministers. During his years in power he dramatically transformed Canadian culture. Today, Pierre Trudeau is regarded by Canadians as a major political leader whose contributions continue to inspire Canadian society."

FIFTH PLACE: TAIWAN

Finishing just three points behind the Trudeau stamp from Liberia was one from the Republic of China (Taiwan) picturing Canadian missionary Dr. George Leslie Mackay.

On March 21, 1844, George Leslie Mackay was born on a farm near the village of Embro in Oxford County in southern Ontario. He was the youngest son of Scottish immigrants. He learned the teachings of the Bible at home and by the time he reached his tenth birthday he entertained the idea of becoming a missionary. He graduated from Princeton as a student in the Theological Seminary in 1870.

OTHER NOTABLES

Two other stamps issued in 2001 placed well in the Canadiana poll. Both stamps honoured Alexander Graham Bell on the occasion of the 125th anniversary of the invention of the telephone. A stamp from Ukraine finished just a single point ahead of a stamp from Uruguay.

Bell was born in Edinburgh, Scotland on March 3, 1847. He emigrated with his family to Canada in 1870 and settled in Brantford, Ontario. Bell is best known for his discovery that sound can be transmitted electronically over a wire. Then on March 7, 1876 he was granted a patent on the invention of the telephone.

In the early 1900s Bell's prime interests turned to aerodynamics. He moved permanently to his summer home in Baddeck, Nova Scotia and in 1907 founded the Aerial Experiment Association. Bell helped design Canada's first aircraft, the Silver Dart.

At the age of 75, Alexander Graham Bell died on August 2, 1922 in Nova Scotia where he is buried.

Both the Bell Homestead in Brantford, Ontario and the Alexander Graham Bell Museum in Baddeck, Nova Scotia are lasting museums to the great inventor.

In 1871 Mackay was named the first foreign missionary of the Canada Presbyterian Church and was sent to Formosa (Taiwan). Once in Formosa Mackay immersed himself in the local culture and eventually married a local woman.

Mackay Hospital as the first Western hospital in the northern part of Taiwan. In 1882, he established the Oxford College in Tamsui and in 1883 he founded the Tamsui Girls' School, leading the movement toward educating women in Taiwan.

In 1901 Mackay died of throat cancer at the age of 57. Mackay's son, George William, opened the Tamkang Junior High School in Taiwan in 1911. When he died in Taiwan in 1963 he was buried in a tomb in Taiwan next to his father.

On the occasion of the centenary of Dr. Mackay's death Taiwan issued a commemorative stamp on June 1, 2001. A press release from the Taiwan Directorate General of Posts noted that, "To cherish the memory of [Mackay's] unselfish devotion to Taiwan, and so to strengthen the bonds of friendship between Taiwan and Canada, this Directorate is issuing a stamp to note the centennial anniversary of Mackay's passing."

A portrait of Mackay dominates the stamp design. To the left of the portrait is a scene of Mackay pulling a patient's tooth outdoors, and to its right is a building of Oxford College, the first western school in Taiwan, the design and construction of which were supervised by Mackay.

The Taiwanese stamp was designed by Lee Kuang-chi. The China Colour Printing Company produced the stamp in panes of 20 using the process of deep etch offset.

FINAL TALLY

Unlike the poll results for the past two years, the 2001 winner was a clear favourite. The 2000 winner came in first by just one point.

Of all 2001 ballots received, 30% chose the Isle of Man stamp as the favourite while 15% picked the second-place Monaco stamp as best. Overall, 53% of voters picked the Isle of Man stamp as one of their top three choices. Interestingly, the second highest number of first place votes went to the stamp from Liberia with 18% of voters choosing it overall. Yet the Liberian stamp placed fourth receiving few second or third place votes suggesting voters either strongly liked or disliked the stamp. This can perhaps be attributed to politics as former Prime Minister Trudeau was a controversial figure. As well the "exploitive" stamps of the unstable, war-torn Liberia are frowned upon by many collectors. In the run for second place, the Polish stamp actually received more first place votes than that of Monaco but finished third to Monaco's second place due to more second and third place votes. ♣

JAMAICAN JOTTINGS

By "Busha"

In October of 1938 Jamaica issued a new set of pictorial definitives for the new monarch, King George VI. The design for the one shilling value was put out to bid. The bid notice, dated August 23, 1937, read in part: "For the design of the 1 shilling stamp, a representation of the sugar industry is required with tall canes in the foreground vanishing into the distance along the edge of the cane plantation towards the left with a sugar mill and smoking chimney in the lower right-hand corner". The design adopted was engraved on two plates: the frame plate for the brown border and the centre plate for the green vignette. The sheet of 60 was arranged in 12 rows of five stamps each, and printed by Waterlow & Sons of London.

From the beginning an error was noted on stamp R11/1, that is Row 11, Stamp 1. It consists of two heavy lines cutting through the smoke from one chimney. This same centre plate was in use until 1951, but the error was repaired in 1947.

According to the Crown Agents records some 17 separate printings occurred with eight of them accounting for a total of 57,784 sheets made before 1948 which would have shown the error. The other nine printings were done between 1948 and 1956 with the latter being some four years into the reign of Queen Elizabeth II. While there are conceivably over 57,000 examples of this error, they are very elusive and quite pricey. Gibbons lists this variety at £375 mint; £100 used! ♣

FRANCE 1931 COLONIAL EXHIBITION'S 1.5 F

In 1930, France issued a four stamp set in honor of the 1931 Colonial Exhibition. There are two varieties of the 50c red, but they are of essentially equal catalogue value. In 1931, the set was finished with a 1.5 F blue horizontal format stamp. In the center of the design was "R.F." for République Française.

A variety exists with no period after the "F" in the center. The "with-period" stamp has a catalogue value of 425 F mint hinged (MH) and 23 F used. The "without-period" variety is 2,500 F MH and 1,000 F used. This is one of the French varieties with a MH value that is a significant multiple of the ordinary stamp. But as is often the case, the value-multiple for the used stamp is even greater.

"Values:" dividing the variety value by the value of the ordinary stamp will create a multiple the reader can apply to prices from any other catalog. For example, if the ordinary stamp has a used price of 100 marks (or francs), and the variety has a used price of 350 marks (or francs), multiplying a Scott or Unitrade price for the used stamp by 3.5 will give an approximate value for the variety.

As usual, images are available in color to those who e-mail me with requests at napoleon@voyager.net. ♣

Epic Voyage of the

By Ken Lewis

The Dornier Do-X is listed as one of the world's greatest aircraft. It was the brainchild of Dr. Claudius Dornier, whose forte was in designing flying boats. His long-term idea was to build a multi-engine aircraft that could carry passengers and operate on the commercial trans-Atlantic routes.

It was in the early 1920s that a special design bureau was set up at Manzell, Germany to produce a feasibility study of his vision. By 1926 the bureau ordered a full size wooden mock-up to be built. The mock-up had been christened with the name of Dornier Do-X, with X being the reference to the unknown factor as is usually used in algebraic equations. It was built in the old Zeppelin shed at Friedrichshafen on Lake Constance, also known as the Bodensee. Because this mock-up was so persuasive it was decided to build an air worthy prototype at the Altenrhein factory at Lake Constance. This order was given in December 1927, and eighteen months later the world's largest aircraft was rolled out and prepared for flight testing. When Dr. Dornier saw it he immediately called it a flying ship instead of a flying boat because of its immense size.

The fuselage was divided into three decks: the lower deck housed the fuel system and the freight (including the luggage of the passengers); the middle deck was designed to carry between 66 and 70 passengers in absolute luxury; and the top deck was comprised (from front to back, respectively) of the flight crew station, commanders bridge, engine room, and the wireless/auxiliary machine room. Even though the fuselage was considered massive (130 feet long) it was overshadowed by the immense wingspan (160 feet), on top of which were mounted the twelve Bristol Jupiter air-cooled engines, each producing 525 horsepower, built under licence in Germany by the Siemens Company. These engines were positioned back to back in six rows across the top of the wing. This wing was designed like a slab, untapered in both plan and depth, except for the extreme tips. Additionally, it did not have any flaps, slots, or any other lift devices fitted. It relied solely on its size and shape for its lift properties. In fact the wing was designed by the principle of ground-effect, whereby aircraft could fly with a much-reduced wingspan. Modern ground-effect aircraft are known after the Russian project to build such aircraft-Ekranoplan. When the Do-X was registered it was allocated the mark - D 1929 - that signified the year in which it was built and registered.

It was on the morning of July 12, 1929 the Do-X was to take its taxiing trials under the command of Director Schulte-Fruhlinde, and Chief test pilot Richard Wagner. As these trials went better than expected it was decided to attempt a take-off from the waters of Lake Constance to check its flight properties. (Fig. 1). There were three separate short test flights on this morning. These test flights supplied a top speed of 214 km/hour (133 m.p.h.) with an all-up weight of 51

1/2 tons. The take-off took 130 seconds. As testing continued it was discovered that the Siemens-built Bristol Jupiter engines were not providing enough power for sustained flight and were replaced by liquid-cooled Curtiss GV-1570 Conqueror engines, each producing 615 hp. These new engines were fitted and the aircraft flown on August 4, 1930, but the extra performance was limited because they weighed 1,088 kg (2,343 lb) more than the Bristol Jupiter engines. Nevertheless, these engines were to remain with the aircraft for its duration and the trials were completed by October, 1930. Some references give the Curtiss engine powered aircraft the designation Do-X1A but the company retained the original Do-X designation.

To prove that the performance was adequate for trans-Atlantic service it was decided to test fly it across the Atlantic Ocean. This would allow the crew to evaluate the changes in climatic and operating conditions. Once the German media found out about this trans-Atlantic test flight they created great interest amongst the German population. This interest then spread worldwide and as a result this long-range test flight was converted into a record-breaking attempt.

Not only did the German people have an interest in this flight but the world's philatelists also wanted a souvenir, especially a flown cover. Eventually the date for this flight was fixed as November 5, 1930. It took off with a crew of 13 and flew to the west of the Rhine. Over the next few days it flew to Rotterdam, Netherlands and Calshot, England, and was subjected to many photosessions along the way. From Calshot, the Do-X flew south for Portugal, calling in on France and Spain for more courtesy visits. While at Lisbon, a major setback occurred: the whole of the port wing fabric was destroyed by fire. This fire delayed the flight by a total of eight weeks; it took six weeks for new fabric to arrive from Germany, and two weeks for the wing to be re-covered. By the time the aircraft was ready to take off for its trans-Atlantic flight, it was February and the North Atlantic weather was considered too severe for the flight. The route was changed to Natal, Brazil, crossing the South Atlantic by what was referred to as the slow route. On the day that it was due to take off, February 2, heavy seas at Gando Bay caused severe structural problems to the starboard wing that would take a further three months to repair.

When the Do-X did eventually take off, it flew to Portuguese Guinea on the first leg of its flight to Brazil. Because of the hot weather, the aircraft had to be lightened to allow it to continue on its flight plan to the Cape Verde Islands. This flight went well and continued to Natal, Brazil without any further problems. Its arrival at Natal was exactly seven months to the day since it had left Lake Constance in Germany.

In Brazil, it was decided to fly to the USA, its initial destination. This meant that the interior, removed at Portuguese Guinea, had to be refitted to its original specification before departing on its flight to New York on August 27, 1931. While refitting the interior, there was another delay due to necessary engine repairs. It completed its flight to New York, via Surinam, Trinidad, and Antigua, and it was here in New York that it had a complete overhaul that lasted nine months. Philatelists were still following the progress of the flight and had more opportunities to send covers to the USA, en route from Brazil. Once the overhaul had been completed it was to fly home to Germany via Newfoundland, the Azores, Spain, and England. From Newfoundland, on May 20, 1931 the flight took six days to complete. During these setbacks, due to overhauls and repairs, the public lost interest at an amazing rate but it was mainly the philatelists who kept faith in the project. The pilot for this last leg of the flight was Captain Christianson.

When the Do-X arrived back in Germany at the end of her flight she was passed to the Deutsche Versuchsanstalt Luftfahrt for testing. In 1934 it was dismantled and taken to the Aviation Museum in Berlin where she took her place amongst the other exhibits. During the last few weeks of the Second World War, an Allied bombing raid on Berlin destroyed the museum and most of its exhibits. The Do-X was completely destroyed and so ended one example of Germany's pioneering aviation.

Two other Do-X aircraft were built for the Italians, designated Do-X2 and Do-X3. Both were intended for use on an airline link between Genoa, Naples, Rome, and Tripoli. Instead of using the Curtiss engines, these two aircraft were to be powered by twelve Fiat A-22R liquid-cooled engines. As with the previous Do-X engines, these would also prove to be lacking in the necessary performance. Both these aircraft were destroyed but one has recently been discovered at the bottom of an Italian lake.

DETAILS OF THE THREE COVERS:

Surinam (Fig. 2 & 2a)

This cover was posted on August 10, 1931 at Paramaribo, Surinam, destined for the USA. Surinam was previously called Dutch Guiana situated in northeast South America. The Surinam Post Office issued a special postmark and a separate cachet, applied to the rear of this cover, to commemorate the occasion. The stamps are overprinted with the words in the Dutch language 'Deuche/Do. X/1931'. From Paramaribo it flew to Trinidad and Antigua before arriving at New York to the delight of the world. This cover was addressed to San Antonio, Texas, USA and the sender lived in San Juan, Porto Rico (Puerto Rico).

The cover has two of the specially overprinted stamps to pay the correct postage to the USA: they are the 40 cents orange and the 15 cents ultramarine. These stamps were on sale from August 8 to 19, 1931, and any unsold stamps were destroyed. A total of seven stamps were overprinted to commemorate this flight and consist of the following denominations: 10 cent (dull red), 15 cents (ultramarine), 20 cents (dull green), 40 cents (orange), 60 cents (brown violet), 1 Guilder (black), and 11/2 Guilders (deep brown). Only 1000 Surinam covers were carried on this flight. The special postmark and cachet can be seen in the illustration.

Newfoundland (Fig. 3)

On May 19, 1931 the Newfoundland Department of Posts and Telegraphs had made arrangements to forward mail via the Do-X. A special airmail stamp was prepared to prepay postage on this flight: it consisted of the $1 airmail stamp (first issued on March 13, 1931 with watermark) depicting the historic air routes across the North Atlantic and surcharged in red 'TRANS-ATLANTIC/WEST TO EAST/Per Dornier DO-X/May, 1932./One Dollar and Fifty Cents' in five lines. A total of 8,000 of these stamps were overprinted at the offices of D. R. Thistle and Company, Newfoundland. On the day of issue the entire stock was sold out even though no one was allowed to purchase more than four stamps. Considering that the stamp was only available from noon on May 19th until they were either sold out or till 10 p.m. that same night, these feats of aviation of the time captivated the imagination of the people around the world.

A total of 1,804 covers were sent from Newfoundland on the Do-X when it left on May 20, 1932. This figure is made up as follows:

From St. John's postmarked 19th May 1932	1,362
From St. John's postmarked 20th May 1932	427
From Holyrood postmarked 20th May 1932	5
Carried by Crew of Do-X	10
Total	1,804

In most cases, special cachets were applied to the covers carried on the many legs of this flight.

The Newfoundland to Germany route did not have one because the Newfoundland Post Office considered that the special overprint on the stamp issued for the flight was sufficient.

The cover was sent to Mr. Stanley Leigh of Manchester, England and there are no other markings on the front or back. Colin D. Lewis kindly loaned this cover especially for this article.

Conclusion

In all cases the total number of individual items of mail, with each one not exceeding one ounce, to be carried on the Pan-American flight of the Do-X was restricted to 3,000. Obviously this put a limit on how many items of mail could be accepted at each port of call. Most mail pieces traveled on just one leg of the entire voyage. Only a very few completed the full round trip due to the uncertainty of its route. These three covers show different legs flown by the Do-X on its Pan-American voyage.

As can be seen, this experimental aircraft, albeit built out of tried-and-tested technologies of its time, only made the one flight before being mothballed. It tried to emulate the first Pan-American flight of the Graf Zeppelin in June 1930 at a time when the commercial aircraft industry was still in its infancy. A number of aircraft flights had been made across the Atlantic but none of them was designed to accomplish the journey as an airliner. As has been stated previously, the public interest in anything to do with aviation was insatiable and this flight was no exception. Because of the many setbacks that occurred during the flight, public interest waned from time to time but was renewed again as each leg was recommenced.

It is a pity that this flight will be remembered more for the setbacks that it endured than for the pioneering spirit of the designer and crew who flew it across the Atlantic both ways. Philatelists, more than others, keep this noteworthy achievement alive. ✨

1. Eligibility

Cette exposition de niveau national est ouverte à tous les collectionneurs particuliers, à condition qu'ils satisfassent les exigences d'admission contenues dans ce prospectus. Tout exposant doit être propriétaire de bonne foi de la totalité des pièces qu'il expose. Si ces pièces ont été achetées en tant que collection, celle-ci doit avoir été en la possession de l'exposant pendant au moins deux ans, avoir fait l'objet de révisions approfondies et avoir été préparée par l'exposant lui-même. En présentant sa demande d'inscription, l'exposant s'engage implicitement à respecter ces conditions d'admission.

2. Classification des collections

Classes/Divisions nationales «Adultes» (évaluées selon les normes nationales de La SPRC)

Les classes/divisions nationales «Adultes» concernent les collections répondant à l'un des critères suivants :

- la collection a déjà reçu au moins une médaille d'argent lors d'une exposition locale ou régionale; ou
- la collection a été déclarée d'un degré suffisamment avancé par le Comité d'exposition pour figurer parmi cette classe/division; ou
- la collection, bien que nouvelle, est présentée par un exposant qui bénéficie d'une expérience prouvée dans des expositions nationales passées; ou

L'âge et l'anniversaire de chaque exposant doit être indiqué tel que spécifié sur le formulaire officiel d'inscription, puisque cette classe sera divisée par groupes d'âge afin de faciliter l'évaluation. Pour que la collection puisse être évaluée selon les normes nationales, elle doit avoir reçu au moins une médaille de bronze-argenté lors d'une exposition locale ou régionale.

Informations d'ordre général : Un exposant peut présenter plus d'une collection, mais uniquement une seule par division/section, bien que le Comité d'exposition soit en mesure de restreindre le nombre de pièces ou de cadres présentés de façon à pouvoir accommoder un nombre maximal d'exposants qualifiés.

Historical Importance

By Fred R. Stubens

One of my specialties as a postal historian is the postal history of the French colony of Saint Domingue. Before it was named Saint Domingue, the Spanish territory of Santo Domingo was known by its Arawak name of Haiti. History came full circle on January 1, 1804 when the colony became the first independent country in the Caribbean and assumed its original name.

The final phase of the French colony of Saint Domingue begins with the news of the French Revolution. The black slaves, who laboured on the plantations thought that the motto, Liberté, Egalité, Fraternité applied to them too and revolted when the settlers and plantation owners, supported by a strong army presence, disagreed with them. The uprising was successful. The settlers, with their backs to the wall, were looking for outside assistance but the colony's Spanish neighbour, Santo Domingo, did not help, so a delegation was sent to Jamaica, asking the English to take over the colony. Documents were signed on September 3, 1793 and occupation began on September 19.

The King's Navy established its headquarters at Mole St. Nicholas, the site of Christopher Columbus's second port-of-call in the "New World". Some sources maintain that the flagship of his small fleet, the Santa Maria, sank in a storm off The Mole, hastening his return to Spain.

The letter under study is addressed to M. Thos Duckworth Esq., Comodore and Commander in Chief at San Domingo &&&& Mole St. Nicholas as shown in Figure 1.

It was written by Captain Francis Collingwood, the officer commanding the steamer Hindustan, while it was probably still in the harbour. The address panel is inscribed: On H. Majesty Service. It is the earliest use of this instructional marking that I know of.

The Hindustan shows up on Robertson's list of ships of the East India Company 1761-1834 as Hindustan I, 1248 tonnes, in service 1790-1794. The Company put her at the disposal of Lord MacCartney, special Ambassador to the Emperor of China. She carried the legation from Canton to Taku in 1792 and probably brought them back after the unsuccessful end of the mission. She was acquired by the Royal Navy in 1794, equipped as a storeship, and sent to Jamaica to serve in support of British naval units in the Caribbean.

The letter contains a detailed list of 83 coils of cordage purchased for the squadron in Port-au-Prince and sent on the Dictator, commanded by Capt. Tutty.

The addressee of the letter, Thos. Duckworth Esq., was in the fall of 1796 on his first posting to the Antilles. Some sources state that his first arrival in the islands was in June of 1800, the letter under study proves this to be wrong. On that date he became Commander of British Naval Forces in the area, was involved in the defeat of Swedish and Danish forces on St. Thomas and St. Bartholomew islands, returned to England and in June 1801 was knighted into the Order of the Bath.

There is a Canadian connection: He was promoted to full Admiral in 1810 and sent to Canada as Commander-in-Chief of naval forces in Newfoundland and the adjacent region. He was appointed to the post of Governor of Newfoundland, a post he held until October 1812, when he definitely returned to England.

My thanks to Owen White and Michael Houde, fellow-members of the PSSoFC for their assistance with the research of this study. ♣

THE SHORT STORY COLUMN

The Story of Pitcairn Island (#7)... continued...

The last episode ended by telling of the return of two families to Pitcairn from Norfolk Island in January of 1859. That small contingent was the fewest number of inhabitants that Pitcairn has ever had. However, in 1863 an additional 31 uprooted Pitcairners returned from Norfolk Island and from those two groups the present day Pitcairn Islanders have largely descended. Christian and Young are the only "Bounty" surnames surviving on Pitcairn today.

In 1876 a box of religious literature was sent to Pitcairn as a good-will gesture by the Seventh-day Adventist Church in the United States. The Pitcairners read this with interest, but there was no rush to give up their Church of England faith.

Then, on October 18, 1886, a devout Seventh-day Adventist named John I. Tay arrived on the island. After a five week stay he returned to the States and convinced his Church that the Pitcairners were ready to embrace their faith. In 1887 the Church sent their first mission ship to the island, but she was lost at sea. In 1890 the Church had a new vessel built Christened Pitcairn, she sailed from San Francisco on October 20, 1890 and arrived at Pitcairn on November 25th. She brought six Adventist missionaries - which included John Tay and his wife.

Tay's conversion dreams were realized and in the ensuing mass baptism in a rock-bound pool 82 islanders were accepted into the Adventist faith. To this day it is the Island's only religious faith.

The background design of the Adventist stamp issue shows their island churches over the years, but in this 1977 issue the Church is portrayed as it is today.

The "Bounty Bible" (see Episode #4) is proudly displayed in a special glass-topped case in the Church. Securely locked, two keys are required to open it.

The pastor of Pitcairn's Seventh-day Adventist Church serves a two-year term and one requirement for service is that his wife must be a trained nurse for she must act as the island's medical officer and maintain the dispensary.

For many years prior to 1948 the Church ran the school, but then Church and State were separated and an Education Officer is appointed every two years by the Governor in Auckland, N.Z.

Before the Church took on the responsibility of running the school, Rosalind Amelia Young, a well educated descendant of a mutineer, taught at the school for several years. She was the authoress of the first book written by a Pitcairner.

Before leaving the subject of Education, it is worthy of mention that the profits from the very first issue of Pitcairn postage stamps in 1940 paid for the building of her first permanent school house in 1949, featured on this stamp issued in 1951.

"To Err is Human .." as the saying goes. The first QE II series of stamps was issued in July 1957 and the 4d. value purportedly depicts the school, but Type II (Nov. 1958) is correctly inscribed: Schoolteacher's House.

The school system is based on the New Zealand model, and after Pitcairn youngsters reach the age of 15 they go to New Zealand to complete their higher education. Sad to say, many of them decide not to return to their island paradise... or is it a paradise? After all, what does the future hold for them there? Quo vadis? But their departure denudes the island population still further and brings it closer to extinction.

Just what is life like on Pitcairn Island?

Never having been there myself, I can't write from first-hand knowledge. But there are scores of reference books out there to satisfy your curiosity if it has been piqued.

You might start with Pitcairn's stamp issues. Over the years (only 60 of them since the Island put out her first stamps) the life and times have been beautifully portrayed on her postal issues. Digging into the background of the events portrayed can be a wonderful insight into the life style of these descendants of the Bounty Mutineers!

Choosing purely at random I start with the "Bounty Day" set (Sc. #174-6). In Canada we celebrate July 1st. For our neighbours to the South, July 4th is their Big Day. For the Pitcairners it is January 23rd. On that day in 1790 their ancestors torched HMAV Bounty, thus marking - in a way - their freedom from discovery by a vengeful Royal Navy. And so, every year on that date the Pitcairners make a model of the Bounty, float it out into Bounty Bay, and set it afire. Celebrating their Pitcairn origins!

The December 1957 issue of The National Geographic Magazine carried a most interesting article by Luis Marden... "I Found the Bones of the Bounty". I would say this is "must" reading for anyone interested in this subject.

But it was in February of 1957 that scuba diver Wilford Fawcett found the second bow anchor of the Bounty in 50 feet of water in Bounty Bay. (The first bow anchor line was cut, on Christian's orders, when the Bounty slipped away from Tahiti to seek a safe refuge - which turned out to be Pitcairn Island. That anchor was retrieved some years ago and can now be seen at the Auckland War Memorial Museum in New Zealand). This bow anchor was raised from its watery grave by the winch of the yacht Yankee, on which Fawcett was travelling, and taken to Adamstown. And there, that 12-foot relic, mounted on a concrete plinth, can now be seen in front of the Court House in the square. It is the most photographed relic of the Bounty.

On arrival at Pitcairn the Mutineers' and their Tahitian cohorts' first priority to was to build shelters.

Their first efforts were, quite naturally, rather primitive but as time went on more solid structures were erected.

(We shall see more of that in the next episode: stay tuned to this station....)

ARLS BISECT COVER

by Horace Harrison and Gray Scrimgeour

We'd like to describe a most unusual cover [Figure 1] on which a bisected 2¢ registered letter stamp (RLS) was used to pay the drop letter postage. The local cover was mailed at Advocate Harbour, Nova Scotia on May 11, 1880. Note that the postmark reads ADVOOATE, not ADVOCATE. Although bisected stamps were not authorized by the Canadian post office, they were sometimes used in the Maritime provinces in the 1860s to 1880s (sometimes for philatelic purposes, sometimes not).

Horace acquired the illustrated cover from Arthur Leggett via Allan Steinhart a decade ago, just after Art had purchased a great deal of Gerald Wellburn's collections. The cover was still on Gerry's page when Horace purchased it. It was priced as a fake. Gerry described the cover as:

A Faked 2¢ Registered Bisect - Example of a 'De Thuin' Faked Cover. Postmark 'Advocate Harbour' is misspelled ADVOOATE HARBOUR!

However, our examination of the cover strongly suggests that it is not a fake.

Figure 1. Local cover postmarked MY 31, 1880 at Advocate Harbour, Nova Scotia. The postage fee of one cent was apparently paid using a bisected 2¢ registered letter stamp. The town datestamp reads ADVOOATE HARBOUR, N.S. in error. The portion of the adhesive is tied by a colonial-era grid of the type used at Advocate Harbour.

The counterfeiter Raoul de Thuin produced a number of BNA faked bisect covers, adding bisected genuine stamps and faked markings to stampless covers [1]. Canadian postal historians are always concerned with the possibility of bisected covers from the Maritime provinces being de Thuin products. We are convinced that de Thuin would not have made such an egregious error in the spelling of ADVOCATE. He made many errors in rates and other postal history, but it is doubtful that he would have made this spelling error.

Considering the postmarks on this cover, let us first discuss the datestamp. It is a double broken circle of the type manufactured by James H. Venning [2]. In 1987, Lloyd Macpherson [3] examined his Nova Scotia double broken circles and concluded that this Advocate Harbour postmark was a Venning product. However, Lloyd did not notice the spelling error. Paul Binney, in his article on grid oblitters of Nova Scotia [4], illustrates an 1876 cover from Advocate Harbour (p. 49). The date stamp appears to be the same as that on the cover in Figure 1. Paul has sent us a clear photocopy of his cover, and it too has the ADVOOATE spelling error. The curved '7' of the year date 1876 is easily recognizable as a Venning '7', confirming the source of the device. de Thuin concocted at least one Nova Scotia double broken circle, an ANNAPOLIS, N.S. mark [ref. 1, p. 48]. Its date indicia are smaller than those made by Venning, and several letters have serifs. Venning hammers do not have serifs. We conclude that the datestamp on the bisected RLS cover is genuine.

Although it is a partial strike, the obliterator tying the adhesive to the cover shown in Figure 1 appears to be a barred colonial-era grid with no enclosing oval, similar to that used at Advocate Harbour in 1876 [4]. de Thuin produced several types of barred killers, but none of those shown in reference [1] are identical to the Advocate Harbour handstamp. We see no reason to doubt that the obliterator on Horace's cover is genuine.

After we had analyzed this cover, we played some guessing games. Horace asked Gray to guess how much Allan, thinking it was a fake, had charged for the cover. Gray's guess was Can$125-150. Horace had paid US$55. The exchange rate then (January 1992) wasn't quite as lopsided then as it is now. Horace then asked how much Al would have charged if he'd read this article; Gray guessed an asking price of Can$1600, and a selling price of about $1300 (Allan might still have had a bit of doubt of full authenticity; he'd maybe have asked Can$3000+ if he was certain it was genuine). In turn, Gray asked Horace how much he would have paid if the cover had a 'good' certificate from an acceptable committee. Horace's answer was that at that time he would probably have paid anything Allan asked, up to several thousand Canadian dollars. The difference between the actual and the postulated price is rather large. Isn't idle (idol) speculation fun?

This unique use of half of a 2¢ RLS to pay the 1¢ drop letter postage rate has been seemingly authenticated by noticing a previously unrecognized spelling error in a postmark. It is incidents like this that make postal history a fascinating and enjoyable hobby. ✦

BOOK REVIEW

AR Avis de réception.

David Handelman is the chief author/researcher with assistance from Peter A. S. Smith and Henrik Mouritsen. Soft cover, wire coil bound, 158 pages.

Published 2002 by Postal History Society of Canada.

It was a privilege to review David Handelman's monograph on AR. The soft cover book, a reader-friendly publication, was a pleasure to read. Measuring 6" X 9" in wire-bound format, I would not have to adjust the spaces between my bookshelves to accommodate it. Because of its worldwide scope, it is probably the most concise work on AR in existence.

Its contents are arranged by country and the text is accompanied by a generous number of illustrations. Many of the reproduced older covers are rare and difficult to obtain.

Handelman's development of the history of AR is well researched and clearly written. The only challenge I had was locating the additional footnote information normally found at the bottom of the page. Although I eventually found these additional notes in the reference section at the back of the book an explanation in the opening pages would have been useful.

The reader can easily visualize how AR service came into being and how and why it evolved in the way it did.

As a result of this work, more AR material will probably come to light. I am confident that that was part of the authors' motivation in compiling the information on this relatively little known philatelic topic. Postal history aficionados will now have something new to look for in dealer boxes.

On its own merits, the publication is well organized and well researched. All illustrations are reproduced with great clarity and the glare-proof pages are easy to read.

In summary, I learned a great deal about AR and I see this work as a valuable reference for years to come. Congratulations to David and his collaborators on identifying this under-researched area of postal history. 🍁

SUBSCRIPTION TO THE CANADIAN PHILATELIST

S-27459 Albert G. Farmer*

S-27472 Acquisitions Section, State Historical Society, 816 State Street, Madison, WI 53706-1482 USA

CHANGE OF ADDRESS, DECEASED MEMBERS, & RESIGNED MEMBERS LISTED ON PAGE 49

WELCOME ...

... to the more than 200 new members who joined the Society in the last two months. I hope that you will find that The RPSC has a lot to offer to you. Our services are found on the wrapper and throughout the magazine. Please feel free to use them. As well, check out our website <<www.rpsc.org>> for more information and news.

CONGRATULATIONS ...

... to all our members who have been honoured with the Queen Elizabeth II Golden Jubilee medal from our Patron the Governor-General. At writing there were 11 members who have received this honour for their philatelic and/or community endeavours. These are Lola Caron, Andrew Chung, Wally Gutzman, John Jamieson, Jean-Claude Lafleur, Dick Malott, Cimon Morin, Kevin O'Reilly, Bill Robinson, Elizabeth Sodero and myself.

WHY HANOVER in 2003?

ROYAL * 2003 * ROYALE is being held in Hanover, Ontario from May 30 to June 1 in the Hanover Regional Aquatic Centre and Coliseum. A frequently asked question is why The RPSC chose such a small town for its convention. The answer is, why not? Our Society is a national organization and our Convention travels throughout the country. It shows the flag for philately. Furthermore, southwestern Ontario is currently the fastest growth area for stamp collecting. We cannot go only to large cities-although that is what we do most often. Prior to Hanover we went to Winnipeg (2000), Montreal (2001) and Edmonton (2002). After Hanover, conventions are scheduled for Halifax (2004), London, Ontario (2005) and St. John's, Newfoundland (2006). Small town Ontario is known for its hospitality and warmth. I encourage you to come and have fun with us in Hanover and, oh yes, there might be some stamping as well.

BIENVENUE ...

... au plus de 200 nouveaux membres qui se sont joints à la Société dans les derniers mois. Nous espérons que vous trouverez que La SRPC a beaucoup à vous offrir. Vous pouvez trouver nos services sur la jaquette de la revue. N'hésitez pas à les utiliser. De plus, allez voir notre site web <<www.rpsc.org>> pour les nouvelles et les informations supplémentaires.

FÉLICITATIONS ...

... à tous nos membres qui ont été honorés par notre patron, la Gouverneure-générale, de la médaille du Jubilé de Sa Majesté la Reine Elizabeth II. Au moment où j'écris ce message il y a 11 membres qui ont été décorés pour avoir œuvré dans le domaine philatélique et/ou communautaire. Ce sont Lola Caron, Andrew Chung, Wally Gutzman, John Jamieson, Jean-Claude Lafleur, Dick Malott, Cimon Morin, Kevin O'Reilly, Bill Robinson, Elizabeth Sodero et moi-même.

POURQUOI HANOVER EN 2003?

ROYALE * 2003 * ROYAL se tiendra à Hanover, Ontario du 30 mai au 1er juin au Centre sportif d'Hanover. Une question qu'on nous pose souvent est pourquoi La SRPC a choisi un si petit village pour sa convention. La réponse est, pourquoi pas? Notre Société est une organisation nationale et notre Convention voyage à travers le pays. La Convention est le porte-flambeau pour notre hobby. De plus, c'est dans le sud-ouest ontarien qu'on voit la croissance la plus rapide chez les collectionneurs. On se doit de ne pas aller seulement dans les grandes villes, quoique c'est ce que l'on fait le plus souvent. Avant Hanover nous sommes rencontrés à Winnipeg (2000), Montréal (2001) et Edmonton (2002). Après Hanover nos conventions sont prévues pour Halifax (2004), London, Ontario (2005) et St. Jean, Terre-Neuve (2006). L'Ontario des petits villages est reconnu pour son hospitalité et son charme. Je vous encourage à venir avoir du plaisir avec nous à Hanover, et ... aussi faire le timbré.

AN IMPROVED CANADIAN PHILATELIST

This issue brings a new look to our magazine. I hope you like it. Not only have the graphics improved but also the magazine now has 64 pages: an increase of 16 pages in four years and the number of colour pages has gone from 16 to 48 in the same time period. All these improvements are due in large part to an increase in advertisers, which has provided additional funding and an increase in the number of articles available. Our Editor, Tony Shaman, has done an excellent job in making the magazine's contents more balanced and more interesting for our readers. ♣

UN PHILATÉLISTE CANADIEN RENOUVELLÉ

Avec ce numéro, Le Philatéliste canadien fait nouvelle parure. J'espère que celle-ci fait votre affaire. Non seulement est-ce que le graphisme est amélioré mais la publication a maintenant 64 pages: une augmentation de 16 pages en quatre ans et le nombre de pages en couleur est passé de 16 à 48 pendant la même période. Ces améliorations sont dues principalement à une augmentation importante d'annonceurs ce qui nous fournit des fonds supplémentaires et une augmentation dans le nombre d'articles disponibles. Notre rédacteur, Tony Shaman, a fait un travail hors-pair pour assurer une balance dans les articles tout en rendant le magazine plus intéressant pour les lecteurs. ♣

BURUNDI - ILLEGAL POSTAGE STAMP ISSUES

Dear Sir/Madam

The postal administration of BURUNDI asks me to inform you that the National Postal Authority (RNP) has just learned that fake postage stamps purportedly issued by Burundi are being manufactured and circulated.

The issue in question features six varieties of butterfly with the following face values: 100 F, 150 F, 200 F, 250 F, 300 F and 400 F.

The postal administration of Burundi has satisfied itself that these postage stamps are illegal and were never issued by the RNP. They have been issued in contravention of the Universal Postal Convention, the Letter Post Regulations and the legislation of the Republic of Burundi. Legal action has already been initiated to trace the forgers and bring them to justice.

Consequently, the Burundi administration asks all postal administrations not to accept mail items bearing these illegal stamps, and to help eliminate the marketing of these items, which are also without value to collectors of the country's stamps.

Yours faithfully,

K.J.S. McKEOWN

Director of Communication and Postal Markets

BURUNDI - ÉMISSIONS ILLÉGALES DE TIMBRES-POSTE

Madame, Monsieur,

L'administration postale du BURUNDI me prie de vous informer que la Régie nationale des postes (RNP) vient de constater qu'il existe des opérations frauduleuses de fabrication et de mise en circulation de timbres-poste au nom du Burundi.

Il s'agit en l'occurrence d'une émission représentant six variétés de «papillons» aux valeurs suivantes: 100 F, 150 F, 200 F, 250 F, 300 F et 400 F.

L'administration postale du Burundi s'est assurée que ces timbres-poste sont illégaux et qu'ils n'ont jamais été émis par la RNP. Ils ont été émis en violation des dispositions de la Convention postale universelle, de son Règlement de la poste aux lettres et de la législation de la République du Burundi. Des actions en justice ont d'ores et déjà été engagées pour rechercher et traduire les faussaires devant les tribunaux.

Par conséquent, l'administration du Burundi demande à toutes les administrations postales de ne pas accepter les correspondances affranchies au moyen de ces timbres-poste et de veiller à la suspension de la commercialisation desdits timbres. Ces derniers n'ont pas de valeur non plus aux fins de collection au nom du Burundi.

Veuillez agréer, Madame, Monsieur, l'assurance de ma haute considération.

Le Directeur de la communication et des marchés postaux,
K.J.S. McKEOWN

REGENCY STAMPS BUYS SUPERIOR STAMPS & COLLECTIBLES

St. Louis, Missouri - Regency Stamps Ltd. has purchased most of the assets and operations of Superior Stamps & Collectibles of Beverly Hills, California, from its parent company A-Mark Auction Galleries. A-Mark Auctions through the sale of Superior Stamps is now a Regency shareholder. In a continuing effort to expand its business nationally, Regency has bought the venerable auction house which has been in business over 70-years. Superior has been a leader not only in the auction of stamps and postal history, but also of historical documents, sports and entertainment collectibles, and space memorabilia.

Both Regency and Superior will maintain their current locations and identities, securing their strong presence in the Midwest and West Coast. Administration and marketing will be moved to St. Louis, and Alan Lipkin who ran Superior's operation as vice president under A-Mark has now been given the title of senior vice president and will continue in the same capacity in Beverly Hills.

A-Mark's President Steven Markoff said, "With Regency's operational know-how and focus, and with A-Mark's Line of Credit, the future looks quite bright for David Kols and his companies. The Line of Credit should allow Regency to aggressively compete for the best properties, and fund purchases they were unable to make in the past. We look forward to our involvement with them as a shareholder and lender."

David Kols has a successful track record. In just ten years, he has built Regency into one of the nation's leading stamp auction houses. And, with its energetic staff, state-of-the-art computer system, and new larger office in St. Louis, the timing could not be better.

Plans are under way to continue Regency's four major auctions each year, plus add two more sales in California. Regency's last sale was scheduled for November 16th in St. Louis, and featured almost $1 million of no reserve philatelic material - mostly large box lots and collections. Superior's first sale under Regency's ownership is scheduled for January 20-21, 2003 at its Beverly Hills office.

For more information, collectors should contact Regency-Superior Stamps & Collectibles at (800) 782-0066, Fax: (314) 361-5699, Email: info@RegencyStamps.com, or visit their shop at: Regency Stamps, 229 N Euclid Ave, St. Louis, MO 63108-1505.

THE CANADIAN PHILATELIST INDEX

On behalf of our Society, I would like to thank our member Garfield Portch for a service that can best be described as outstanding. Over the past several months Garfield has compiled an Index of the contents of our journal from issue number one to the present. His efforts will be invaluable to researchers, writers, postal historians, and casual readers who may have recalled seeing an article or other item in one of the issues but cannot readily recall which one. The Index will help overcome that problem.

The Index has been posted to: <http://www.rpsc.org/cp/cp-index.htm> on the RPSC Website.

It will also be made available on a disc, free of charge, to anyone supplying a stamped, addressed return envelope. However, if someone wishes to enclose a dated Small Queen stamp for Garfield's calendar collection, it will be gratefully accepted. Requests for a disc containing the Index should be mailed to Mr. Garfield Portch, c/o McGowan & Portch, 4894 Dundas Street West, Islington, ON M9A 1B5.

FELLOWS OF THE SOCIETY

By George Pepall

David Dixon, Fellow of The Royal Philatelic Society of Canada, was a postal history dealer, exhibitor and judge at the highest levels, and an officer of national, regional and local philatelic organizations. There was really no aspect of the hobby that he was not committed to.

Born in Saint John, NB in 1940, he moved with his father to Oakville in 1962. He was a stamp collector from the age of seven. Graduation from the Ford Motor Institute in Detroit eventually led to his position as office manager and chief accountant in a large Oakville Ford dealership.

Dave Dixon took a strong interest in the postal history of Halton County and of his native Saint John. However, he went on to exhibit specialized collections of the 1935 Canada Silver Jubilees, the 1937 Muftis, the 1942 Canada WWII issue, including Canadian WWII prisoner of war labels and parcel franks. His exhibits went on to international levels, where he was an accredited judge for the Fédération Internationale de Philatélie (FIP).

Dave was involved directly in four RPSC National conventions, including ROYAL 83, which he chaired. He served as a director of the RPSC from 1987 to 1995, and as treasurer from 1981 to 1994. He was Canadian Commissioner to eight international philatelic exhibitions, beginning with NORWEX 1980.

Dave showed his eagerness to develop his philatelic knowledge by building a superb philatelic library, which is now largely in private hands. Part of its strength was the 19th Century journals it contained.

Together with longtime friend Dave Claire he operated D & D Covers, a postal history business. In doing so, he became known as an aggressive bidder at auctions; for instance, he was quoted as saying that European stamp prices were justifiably quite high.

Their stock of covers was worldwide in scope, which reflected their attendance at many shows in the 1980-90s, including majors like the various conventions, ORAPEX in Ottawa and Plymouth, Michigan's major event. The two Daves particularly enjoyed overseas shows in Finland and Norway, countries whose stamps have always stood out for their traditional engraving. They stopped taking show tables in the late 1980s.

They were both big trucks enthusiasts: the bigger the wheels and heavier the suspension, the better. Regularly each would try to one-up the other by buying a newer, bigger truck - always Fords, of course.

19th Century covers and monster trucks were not the only items that sparked Dave's acquisitive instincts, though: he was always a major fan of the late Hollywood great John Wayne. Laser discs or video versions of his films, as well as all forms of memorabilia, were just about as exciting to Dave as a newly discovered Large Queen cover! He also collected silent movies. Buster Keaton, Charlie Chaplin and early serial shows like Tarzan and Flash Gordon were his special favourites.

Dave held a variety of offices with the Oakville Stamp Club, the Grand River Valley Philatelic Society, CAPEX 87, the British North American Philatelic Society (BNAPS), and the BNAPS Golden Horseshoe Regional Group. He served terms with the Philatelic Specialists' Society of Canada as advertising manager, secretary, vice-president, president and auditor. He also belonged to the Canadian Philatelic Society of Great Britain.

All of the major Toronto and area dealers knew Dave and enjoyed talking stamps with him. After a show Dave had a keen sense of how to find a fine restaurant where he could unwind with other dealers and collectors. He was particularly partial to a well prepared cut of steak.

Although in some situations, especially at auctions, they may have been competitors, Alan Steinhart, Ted Wright, Jim Hennok and many others in the stamp trade considered him a friend. Sadly, David died prematurely of an apparently treatable form of diabetes in the fall of 1999 at the age of 59.

David Dixon was named a Fellow of the Royal Philatelic Society of Canada in 1989. ♣

A FEW OBSERVATIONS ABOUT TCP

I just read the Charles Verge's report in July / August 2002 edition of The Canadian Philatelist where he observed that newsstand sales of the magazine were higher with Prime Minister Trudeau on the cover than the 3d Beaver. Thus, concluding that sales could be improved by choosing the cover more judiciously. I would like to add some of my own observations regarding The Canadian Philatelist.

First, at the newsstand that I haunt, The Canadian Philatelist is displayed with its white mailing cover. We need to lose this white cover so that the colour cover can be seen clearly.

Second, the titles of none of the other featured articles are shown on the cover to attract the notice of prospective buyers. Many magazines list their articles on the cover not only to improve sales but as a service to readers going through back issues to find reference material.

Third, I have notice the lack of novice articles in The Canadian Philatelist. We need at least one such article in each edition to hook potential philatelists and help the beginner to enjoy the hobby.

In short, to make philately contagious, we need to aim part of The Canadian Philatelist at those who would be susceptible to the philatelic bug and ensure that they get a good dose. This should result in them making visits to stamp dealers for supplies and self administering frequent philatelic sessions at home to control the urge to collect and study postage stamps.

Sincerely,
Tony Dingwell

Thanks for the info and bringing it to our attention. My newsstand doesn't have the wrappers on the cover. I am making arrangements for the wrappers to be inserted in the middle of the publication for all newsstand copies. (cjverge)

I recently found references to Canada's "first stamp" in Pages from a B.N.A. Scrapbook in BNA Topics (Vol. 8, # 5, Whole # 80, May 1951, page 122). This article is made up of small paragraphs of items clipped from older philatelic magazines and periodicals. Item # 1 quotes from The American Philatelist of January 10, 1893 which itself quotes from Mekeel's Weekly Stamp News (# 98, November 16, 1892). All three reference the existence of a Canadian stamp prior to the 3d. Beaver of 1851.

The illustration accompanying this letter shows what it is purported to look like. It is found in both the BNA Topics and The American Philatelist articles. Mekeel's, on page 2, describes it as follows: "The first stamp ever used for postage in Canada was that used on the Quebec and Richmond Railway, in Lower Canada in 1849. It is circular-shaped, black (engraved die), typographed on white wove paper, with open space in the center to write the value." John Reginald Hooper, President of the Canadian Philatelic Society provided the illustration to The American Philatelist. Additional information is provided in that publication on this stamp (page 12). They "were attached by wafers to letters handed to the conductors of the trains, the railway authorities rendering accounts to the post office. Mr. Hooper knows of no specimen in existence other than the one from which our illustration is made, this being the property of Mr. Joseph Malo. This stamp was taken from a letter dated December, 1850. The value is inserted in red."

I am seeking additional information on this "stamp", if it really did exist and if any of your readers know the whereabouts of any examples of it. I would appreciate it if they could contact me by e-mail at vergec@sympatico.ca or by mail at P.O. Box 2788, Station D, Ottawa, ON, Canada K1P 5W8.

Sincerely yours
Charles J. G. Verge, FRPSC

IN MEMORIAM

By George B. Arfken

HORACE WHITE HARRISON

A giant of Canadian philately has died. Horace White Harrison passed away last October 3 just short of his 82nd birthday. In Canadian philately he had been a leader, President of the British North America Philatelic Society and Chairman of Juries at international shows. He was active in Canadian philatelic societies, a life member of The Royal Philatelic Society of Canada, a member of the Order of the Beaver of BNAPS and active in the Canadian Philatelic Society of Great Britain. A frequent exhibitor, his Canadian exhibits often earned national and international gold medals, a recent award being an international gold medal at Pacific'97. Harrison was a prolific writer. His articles ranged from many humorous anecdotes to much serious research. He published in The Canadian Philatelist, BNA Topics, Maple Leaves and other journals. His articles in The Canadian Philatelist contributed significantly to the identification and understanding of 2-ring numeral and other cancels on Canada's Large Queens. The Cumulative Index to BNA Topics 1944 - 1997 lists 45 of his publications in that journal. His article on Canada's five-cent registered letter stamp in the July - August 2000 Collectors Club Philatelist was honored as the best article of the year.

Following a bachelor's degree in history from Princeton in 1943, Harrison volunteered for service in the U.S. Navy. He served as executive officer and navigator on the USS Burrows, a destroyer and convoy escort, seeing service in the Atlantic, the Mediterranean and the Pacific. Discharged in 1946, he had an apprenticeship in the Colonial Insurance Co. and in 1947 joined his father's insurance agency. In 1952, Horace and his brother bought the firm, renaming it Horace W. Harrison & Associates. With his position as an insurance executive and ties to the American Philatelic Society and The Royal Philatelic Society of Canada, Harrison pioneered drastic changes in the insurance of stamp collections. He persuaded insurers that collectors should have special insurance and that stamp collections were less risky than coin collections and deserved lower rates. For years until his retirement in 1984, he operated the official stamp insurance program of the APS.

Harrison's main interests in Canadian philately were registration and postal stationery. In 1971 he published the first comprehensive study of Canadian registration, Canada's Registry System: 1827 - 1911. This thin 84 page book became the definitive treatise on early Canadian registration and remained the definitive treatise for 31 years. Published a few weeks after his death, Harrison's new book, a 500 page volume, Canada's Registered Mail, 1802 - 1909 now claims top position. This new book will serve as a memorial to Harrison.

He is survived by his wife, Kitty (Catherine Hunt France) and a daughter, Dr. Ellen Spears Harrison. ♣

Dear Secretary - RE: Annual Dues

Please forgive me for sending my cheque late for my annual dues. In fact, I forgot all about it until your reminder arrived on August 16; then also I had to look for my cheque book tucked away in some funny place in my house "for safety sake".

It is a very good thing I joined your Society for indeed I have learned a good deal of useful information which you publish from time to time in The RPSC magazine. I thank you for this quiet but deep education.

You will find enclosed herewith a few recent Ghanaian Stamps. Perhaps you already have some of them in your archives?

I will try not to forget the dues renewal date again.

Meanwhile, my regards to all members, especially staff of the administration, like yourself.

Fraternally
Harry A. Marshall

UN dernier mot

In a few weeks we will usher in the New Year. It will be a time when many of us will trot out our New Year's resolutions that we failed to keep the year before - and the year before that.

Why is it so difficult to keep these promises that we make to ourselves? One reason may be that their implementation require lifestyle changes that usually mean giving up something that we enjoy. For example, to suddenly stop smoking cigarettes after 20 or 40 years is not easy. Nor is shedding those extra pounds that we have been meaning to lose.

Resolve to live a healthier lifestyle by eating regular helpings of broccoli, or immortalize your name in the world of science by postulating the Grand Unification Theory; but if these fail, why not have a back-up, easier-to-implement resolution in place?

A New Year's resolution that you know you will be able keep is to give a friend a year's subscription to The Canadian Philatelist. If, at the end of the year, your friend does not renew, you know that you have at least done your part to help our hobby. Alternatively, you may want to investigate ways that might attract more youth to philately. Become an ambassador for stamp collecting. Using stamps as an educational tool for youngsters has been shown to produce positive results. That young person you encouraged to collect stamps picturing animals or flowers might well become tomorrow's biologist or botanist.

Seniors' organizations are other areas that you can explore. Many older individuals are looking for meaningful things to occupy their days and what better way to while away a few hours than by immersing oneself in the world of stamps? Most stamp clubs meet evenings and because many seniors do not like driving at night, especially in inclement winter weather, why not organize a stamp club that meets afternoons at a senior centre?

You can probably think of many more ways of bringing our hobby to groups of people who might Dans quelques semaines ce sera le moment de prendre nos résolutions du Nouvel An : les même que l'année dernière, auxquelles nous avons manqué, tout comme à celles de l'année d'avant.

Mais pourquoi est-il si difficile de tenir ces promesses que nous nous faisons? L'une des raisons est peut-être que le fait de les observer signifie des changements à notre mode de vie, généralement abandonner quelque chose que nous aimons. Par exemple, ce n'est pas facile de renoncer soudainement au tabac après avoir fumé pendant vingt ou quarante ans. Il est tout aussi difficile de se débarrasser de ces kilos en trop que nous étions bien résolus à perdre.

Nous pourrions nous décider à adopter un régime plus sain en mangeant régulièrement notre brocoli, ou essayer de faire notre marque en science en prouvant la théorie de la grande unification. Mais si toutes ces tentatives échouent, pourquoi ne pas prendre des résolutions plus faciles à tenir?

En voici une que vous êtes sûr de pouvoir honorer : faire cadeau à un ami d'un abonnement d'un an à Le philatéliste canadien. Si, à la fin de l'année, votre ami ne renouvelle pas son abonnement, vous aurez à tout le moins la conviction d'avoir fait votre part pour votre passe-temps. Vous pourriez également chercher des moyens d'attirer plus des jeunes à la philatélie, vous faire l'ambassadeur de cette dernière. Le timbre s'est avéré un outil éducatif de choix auprès des jeunes. Qui sait si l'un d'entre ceux que vous aurez ainsi encouragés à collectionner des timbres sur la faune ou la flore n'est pas le biologiste ou le botaniste de demain.

Avez-vous pensé aux organisations pour les personnes du troisième âge? Bien des gens âgés cherchent à passer leur temps de façon profitable. Quoi de plus agréable que de laisser filer quelques heures en se plongeant dans l'univers du timbre? La plupart des clubs de philatélie tiennent leurs réunions en soirée, ce qui pose un problème aux personnes âgées, car elles n'aiment pas conduire le soir, surtout en hiver lorsque le temps n'est pas clément. Dès lors pourquoi ne pas mettre sur pied un club dont les réunions seraient l'après-midi dans un centre pour personnes âgées?

like to learn about the benefits of stamp collecting. Remember that most adult collectors began their hobby as youngsters simply because 50 or more years ago it was the "thing to do." Many of these lapsed collectors might enjoy returning to a hobby that they enjoyed as children. All they need is a nudge in the right direction.

Attracting new collectors to the hobby seems like a win-win situation: non-collectors will enjoy a new pastime and you will have the satisfaction of keeping your New Year's resolution.

In this issue, we introduce a new writer to our pages. The article by long-time member Fred Stubens, who enjoys researching postal history, sheds new light on the career of Commander Thos. Duckworth, who became the Commander-in-Chief of naval forces and eventually Governor of Newfoundland.

At a time when we are accustomed to crossing the Atlantic in little more time than it takes some of us to drive home from our cottage on a long weekend, we have difficulty appreciating the unforeseen mishaps and problems faced by our pioneer aviators. Ken Lewis explores the near two-year voyage of the experimental airship Do-X as it makes its two-way crossing of the Atlantic. The article provides a fascinating glimpse into aviation in the 1920s.

After only a brief absence, J.J. Edward is back with another bio-sketch of an individual honoured on a postage stamp for his contribution to science. Read about the connection of Dr. Heisenberg to a one-time member of our Society, the late Hans Reiche. Gray Scrimgeour is also back with an article, co-authored by Horace Harrison, to bring us up to date on the late Mr. Harrison's favourite topic: the registered letter stamps.

An article by George Arfken touches on a topic that in 1879 was perhaps a little less sensitive than today when justice sometime takes a back seat to issues of confidentiality and the rights of individuals falling afoul of our justice system.

Of course, if you read this journal from front to back, as was no doubt intended by the people who invented the printed word in book form, my review of its contents on this last page will have served little purpose.

Happy collecting in 2003! ❁

Il y a sûrement bien d'autres façons de faire connaître notre passe-temps à des groupes de personnes qui aimeraient peut-être savoir tout ce que peut leur apporter la philatélie. Souvenez vous que la plupart des collectionneurs adultes ont adopté ce passe-temps il y a environ cinquante ans parce que c'était alors « à la mode ». Nombre de ces anciens collectionneurs aimeraient sans doute reprendre une activité qu'ils ont aimée durant leur enfance. Tout ce qu'il leur faut c'est un petit coup de pouce.

L'arrivée de nouveaux collectionneurs créera une situation qui profitera à tous: les non-collectionneurs auront le plaisir d'avoir un nouveau passe-temps, et vous aurez la satisfaction d'avoir tenu votre résolution du Nouvel An.

Dans ce numéro nous vous présentons un nouveau rédacteur, membre depuis longtemps et passionné de l'histoire de la Poste, Fred Stuben. Son article jette une lumière nouvelle sur la carrière du commandant Thos. Duckworth, qui devint commandant en chef des forces navales et par la suite gouverneur de Terre-Neuve.

De nos jours, alors qu'il faut juste un peu plus de temps pour traverser l'Atlantique que certains d'entre nous n'en prennent pour se rendre passer une longue fin de semaine au chalet, on a du mal à s'imaginer toutes les mésaventures et tous les problèmes imprévus que rencontraient les pionniers de l'aviation. Ken Lewis brosse donc un tableau du voyage outre-Atlantique aller-retour du dirigeable expérimental Do-X, qui dura presque deux ans. Il nous donne ainsi un aperçu fascinant de l'aviation dans les années vingt.

Après une brève absence, nous retrouvons J. J. Edwards qui nous offre un autre « bio-croquis » d'un homme honoré sur un timbre pour sa contribution à la science. Vous y verrez que le docteur Heisenberg était en relations avec feu Hans Reiche autrefois membre de notre société. Gray Scrimgeour est aussi de retour avec un article cosigné par Horace Harrison, ils mettent à jour un des thème favoris du feu monsieur Harrison: les timbres de plis recommandés.

L'article de Gorge Arfken touche un point qui, en 1879, piquait moins les sensibilités qu'aujourd'hui alors que la justice joue parfois un rôle secondaire dans les questions de respect de la confidentialité et des droits des contrevenants.

Bien sûr, si vous lisez ce bulletin du début à la fin, tel que prévu par les inventeurs de l'imprimé sous forme de livre, mon résumé de son contenu, que vous trouvez sur cette dernière page, n'aura pas servi à grand chose.

Bonne collection en 2003! ❁
