THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

THE DESIGNS of the new Wild Life stamps to appear in April were recently published and, to say the least, they have aroused a storm of criticism. Frankly, I have not heard a single voice in their favour. We certainly seem to be badly in need of a few competent artists who can design a stamp that is pleasing to the majority of people, for it can hardly be said that the designs of the past few years have been very attractive. In this connection, a few days ago, I received the current copy of a French magazine, the BULLETIN PHILATELIQUE DU MIDI and noted therein the following words of the late Arthur Maury, one of the greatest philatelic experts of all time. It seems to be quite topical at this time and I give a translation of it: "How to go about it and obtain beautiful stamps? It is not easy. Painters, designers, even people who have never held a pencil in their hand, all think that they are fully capable of designing a postage stamp. We have seen this in competitions, but we have also seen how difficult it is to succeed. The creation of a stamp is a great problem, a very special art, just as much as is the designing of a stained glass window, a tapestry, or even a simple poster. Each one has its own special problems which much be the object of a thorough study if the results are not to be lamentable."

These words, written many years ago, seem to be just as applicable to-day. We have quite a few very good artists in Canada. Surely it is not beyond the realm of possibility to find one or two with a special aptitude in the designing of postage stamps. If it is beyond the bounds of possibility, why not call on the services of some of those outstanding designers and engravers they seem to have no difficulty in finding in Belgium, France, Austria, Switzerland, etc.? Canada's stamps are getting beyond a joke. They are becoming a tragedy, and it is time that a radical cure was sought.

Some of you will no doubt have read, in the last number of C.P., the paragraph about clubs in Canada other than our chapters. Mr. A. R. Gibbs, of Hanover, Ont., got in touch with me shortly after the appearance of the magazine to inform me of the recent formation of the AMATEUR RADIO PHILATELIC SOCIETY, but the remarkable fact is that he communicated with me by short-wave wireless, through a Toronto "ham", Bruce Woodall. Of course, I can't say that communication was quite as good as over the telephone, but we heard and understood each other.

And so . . . ON TO WINDSOR! Have you sent in YOUR entry yet? If not, DO IT NOW!

NOUS AVONS vu ces derniers temps la reproduction des nouveaux timbres de la faune du Canada, qui doivent paraître au mois d'avril. On ne peut guère dire qu'ils sont un succès fou! Presque en même temps, je reçois le numéro courant d'une revue française, LE BULLETIN PHILATELIQUE DU MIDI, d'où j'extrais ces quelques lignes de feu Arthur Maury, un des plus grands experts philatéliques qui ait jamais vécu:—

Comment s'y prendre pour obtenir de beaux timbres? Ce n'est pas si simple. Tous les peintres, les dessinateurs et même ceux qui n'ont jamais tenu un crayon se croient très capables de composer un timbre-poste. On a vu cela dans les concours, mais on a vu également combien il est difficile de réussir. Il y a là tout un problèmé, tout un art absolument spécial, exactement comme il y a l'art de composer un vitrail, une tapisserie et même de faire une simple affiche. Chacun a ses règles qui doivent être ètudiées sérieusement si l'on ne veut s'exposer à des résultats pitoyables.

Maury écrivit ces quelques lignes il y a bien longtemps, mais elles sont tout aussi vraies aujourd'hui. Les bons artistes ne manquent pas au

Comments On The American Scene

By Lorne Wm. Bentham

(Philatelic Columnist to Western Stamp Collector, Albany, Oregon; Scott's Monthly Journal, New York City; The Philatelic Magazine, London, England; Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly, London, England; Stamp Collecting, London, England. Mr. Bentham is a former director of the Canadian Philatelic Society and also former stamp editor of the Ottawa Journal, Ottawa, Canada.)

NEW YORK CITY, N.Y.—According to George B. Sloane of New York City, an extremely interesting philatelic incident ocurred in this country in 1940. As a matter of fact, Mr. Sloane is very well-known throughout the philatelic world in the United States due to his activities as a professional philatelist and his many contributions to the American philatelic press in the form of articles.

Apparently there was some pressure brought to bear on the U.S. Post Office Department by many prominent philatelists during 1940 to have the postal authorities recognize the British postal centennial of the use of adhesives with a special souvenir sheet.

While there were many influential philatelists who applied pressure on the postal authorities in this country to release a souvenir issue to coincide with the celebrations of the British postal centennial in 1940, there were just as many high ranking philatelists who were definitely opposed to such a commemorative issue. Those who opposed the idea thought that the United States should withhold any special souvenir issue until their own postal centennial in 1947.

Most readers know that the United States didn't release a souvenir sheet for the British postal centennial and issued one for their own centennial in 1947, which was held in conjunction with that great and very successful International Philatelic Exhibition in New York City, known to collectors as CIPEX. The souvenir sheet issued for that occasion had reproductions of the 5c and 10c designs of the 1847 United States issue.

In fact, the issuance of a souvenir sheet in 1940 honoring the British postal centenary very nearly became a reality. Only those in-the-know in the United States Government at the time knew that. The Bureau of Engraving and Printing in Washington, D.C., was instructed to submit a design to the Postmaster-General for his approval.

This model is at present in the possession of former United States Postmaster-General James A. Farley.

It is on the customary tinted card, which carries in the centre a photograph of the U.S. 5c 1847 design. It is bordered by the following inscriptions: top, in two lines, "Issued Under the Authority of James A. Farley". At the left, "1840", and at the right, "1940". Official approval was not indicated on this model.

When the idea was first under consideration, President Franklin D. Roosevelt favoured the project even though the United States had been seven years behind Britain in the issuance of postage stamps, but then someone proposed that it would be more appropriate to use the 1c blue of the 1851 issue, say for instance in a souvenir sheet of six.

The postal authorities sent the suggestion to the President, commenting that the stamps could be printed in green rather than blue, which would offset philatelic complaint on the reprinting of an obsolete issue. Also, the 1c 1851 would represent the "first U.S. stamp of this denomination." In other words, this stamp was the nearest denomination to the famous British penny black.

President Roosevelt is reported to have taken an unfavorable opinion as to the use of the 1c 1851 stamp. He thought that in using this stamp on a souvenir sheet for the purpose of honoring Britain's centennial, didn't quite seem appropriate.

The souvenir sheet, which was to be the American participation in the British postal centennial, was shelved and never made its appearance publicly or privately amongst U.S. Government officials.

Mr. Sloane states that although there was considerable pressure by many philatelists to have the U.S. issue a special souvenir sheet in 1940, it apparently never appeared too popular with the collecting fraternity in the States. Probably that was the main reason why it never made its appearance. Anyway, I though that you would be interested in having the facts of the behind-the-scenes pertaining to this proposed commemorative issue.

Meanwhile the mysterious theft of a mint block of four of the 1918 24-cent airmail stamp of the U.S. with centre inverted, owned by Mrs. Ethel McCoy of New York City, still goes unsolved. Ever since it was stolen from the American Philatelic Society's annual convention and exhibition held last September in Norfolk, Virginia, it has been a main item for discussion amongst philatelists at club meetings from New York City to San Francisco. One theory that has already been advanced is that the block could have been taken by a thief who has since forwarded it on to Europe where it may be to this day, in four collections —that is, the block could have been broken up and sold as single stamps. The philatelic valuation of this inverted block is valued at $25,000.

The latest bulletin of the National Federation of Stamp Clubs within the United States, which has its headquarters at 153 Waverly Place, New York City, states that a E. J. Langdon, ardent philatelist of Titusville, Pennsylvania, has recently launched a campaign wtih the objective of influencing the postal authorities to issue a commemorative stamp honoring the 100th anniversary of the drilling of the first oil well in the United States. This oil well is called the Drake Well and was drilled in Titusville, Penna., in 1859.

The NFSC bulletin reveals that some years ago a resolution was presented to the officials in Washington, D.C., to have the 91st anniversary of the Titusville Oil Well Commemorated but was turned down on account of the uneven anniversary. The bulletin asks all its member clubs to mail in their votes on whether they approve of such a commemorative or not.

Sincerely hope you enjoyed reading this column. Will be back next month with some more interesting items of philatelic interest from the United States.

The Realm Of Stamps

By Montor

THE PUBLICATION of the designs for the two new wild life stamps, which it is proposed to issue on April 12, raised a storm of criticism and philatelists seem to be unanimous in expressing the marked dissapproval and disgust. Canadians for one hundred years, since adhesive stamps were introduced in 1851, have had reason to be proud of their postage stamps, but during the past few years there have been stamps issued which have met with marked criticism and these two new stamps can only be added to this latter category.

One reason why Canadian stamps are so popular with collectors throughout the world is that in the past the designs have been attractive and since pictorial stamps were introduced so full of interest.

An attractive stamp is an excellent vehicle for propoganda and the majority of our stamps have served Canada well in this respect.

Most countries seem to appreciate the value of their postal isues from a public relations point of view, it is evident however that their importance is not fully recognized in Ottawa.

There ssems to be no excuse for the acceptance of these two stamps. It would surely be better if they were not issued as they are neither a compliment to the animals they represent nor to the people of Canada.

The Canadian Philatelic Society of Great Britain is holding its convention this year in Scotland at the Golden Lion Hotel at Stirling from September 27 to October 1. The President of the Society, Mr. J. J. Bonar, has very kindly extended an invitation to any member of our Society who might be visiting the "Old Country" to attend this Convention. Not only will the visitor have the opportunity of seeing a fine display of Canadian material and meeting many of the leading collectors of Canadian stamps, but special arrangements are being made to provide those attending the Convention with facilities for seeing something of the Scottish Highlands.

The C.P.S. of G.B., which has now a membership of some 580, is as its name implies a specialist society for those interested in the stamps and postal history of Canada. The Society publishes a very fine bi-monthly magazine entitled "Maple Leaves", which is alone worth far more than the modest annual subscription of $1.50.

The Secretary of the Society is now Mr. Hedley J. Hollands of 32 Manor Park Gardens, Edgeware, Middlesex, England, and anyone specializing in the stamps of Canada, who is not already a member, would be well advised to apply to him for membership.

On another page in this issue are given details of the four postal items which the United States is issuing in honour of "Fipex" which is being held in New York from April 28 to May 6. Also are described the set of stamps that the Principality of Monaco is issuing in honour of this event. Doubtless other countries will follow suit and issue special stamps to commemorate this exhibition.

Last month saw the appearance of the first number of the paper which the Westmount Junior Stamp Club is putting out for its members. As well as a message from the club's president Wayne L. Bungay, there were short articles entitled "How to look after stamps" by Daphne Decary, "New fields in collecting" by Michael Kelly, and "Le petit coin des francais" by Hélène Montreuil. The paper should do much to help the juniors with their collecting and the club's executive are to be congratulated on their iniative in getting the paper started. Best wishes for its continued success.

RECORD OF NEW ISSUES

CANADA. The Hon. Hugues Lapointe, Postmaster General of Canada, has announced the issue on April 12 of two new postage stamps to draw attention to Canada's National Wildlife Week which is being held from April 8 to 14.

A herd of Caribou is illustrated on the 4 cents purple and the head of a Mountain Goat on the 5 cents blue. Both stamps were designed by Emanuel Hahn, R.C.A., of Toronto. They are being engraved and printed by the Canadian Bank Note Co. Ltd., Ottawa, from two plates in each case Nos. 1 and 2 will be issued in panes of 100 stamps. Being of the commemorative type they will not be reordered when the original supply is exhausted nor will they be overprinted with the letter "G" to indicate their use by Government Departments. A service fee of 5 cents a cover will be made by the Post Office for servicing first day covers at Ottawa.

The current 2 cents stamp has been issued overprinted "G" to indicate its use for the prepayment of postage by Federal Government Departments on official mail.

ADEN. New colours. The 2/—. issued March 1, the 25 cents March 15 and the 5/—. issued April 3.

BARBADOS. The 24 cents and 48 cents with Royal Portrait changed issued March 1.

BRITISH SOLOMON ISLANDS PROTECTORATE. New definite set of 14 values from ½d. to 10/—. were issued on March 1. The stamps bear a portrait of Her Majesty together with the Crown and show various pictorial subjects. They have been printed by the recess process by the following firms:— Bradbury Wilkinson & Co. Ltd., 1d., 2½d., 5d., 6d., 8d., 1/—., and 5/—. Thomas De La Rue & Co. Ltd., 1d., 2d., and 2/—. and Waterlow & Sons Ltd., 1½., 3d., 2/6., and 10/. The designs and colours are as follows, the border colours being shown first in each case:— ½d. violet and orange, Ysabel Canoe; 1d. chestnut and green, Roviana Canoe; 1½d. red and blue-green, Artifi-

Important Announcement!

Your Board voted last year to present an album to the members attending the Montreal Convention who came the furthest distance. By an oversight, this was not announced, but the offer holds good for Windsor. An album will be awarded to the member attending the Windsor Conventon and who comes the furthest away. He can choose any album he likes, within reason of course, none of those super-dooper albums. We know that the member who came the furthest last year was G. C. Burns, of Nelson, B.C. and the year before, at Kitchener, A. N. Peatman, of Saint John, N.B. Who will it be this year?

Canada. N'est-il donc pas possible d'en trouver un ou deux qui aient les qualités nécessaires pour produire un timbre-poste potable? Si ce n'est pas possible, pourquoi ne pas demander à quelques-uns des ces dessinateurs et graveurs remarquables qu'on trouve en Belgique, en France, en Suisse, en Autriche, pour exécuter quelques timbres pour le Canada? Il est temps, croyons-nous, qu'on prenne quelques mesures radicales at sujet des timbres du Canada.

AN AWARD FOR RESEARCH

We are pleased to announce that the Philatelic Sepcialists Society of Canada has awarded a beautiful medal for the best exhibit at the Windsor Exhibition in research work and study. This applies to any country or issue. If there is no entry worthy of this Award, it will not be awarded this year. Our thanks go to Mr. H. Dubé, President of the Philatelic Specialists of Canada, for their kindness in giving this medal for such a group, a very worthy one indeed.

WARNING! Patrons of the Library are requisted NOT to seal their returns to the Library with Scotch tape or other kinds of tape. Tie with twine or string only. If a package is sealed with tape, the Post Office marks it "Sealed against inspection" and the Library has to pay double the deficiency at first class rates. Please mark all returns clearly "PRINTED MATTER RATE" unless returning material as a letter. Please help your Librarian in this matter.

Herbert Buckland,
Librarian.

FROM THE SALES DEPARTMENT

1. We are still having good sales and we report sales of $2,200.00 for January.

2. Our requests are having results and the increase on books received this year is 25%.

3. With regards to members' renewals for coming year we suggest that you notify me and I can deduct the fees from your sales account.

4. We are still trying to find out if any member has a good Canada and B. Empire collection for sale.

5. We ask members to bear with us because we will have a lot of books to retire soon and these will be attended to soon.

6. We expect soon to prepare a leaflet giving particulars Rules, Regulations, etc., of the Sales Dept.

7. If you have some fine Mint or Used Canada we want it and can sell it. Where is all the Canada?

8. High values O.H.M.S. and G. overprints are in demand.

9. We hope to see many of you at the Windsor Convention in April.

10. Please write me about that good collection you have for sale.
